She's a monster and her sounds and sights and traditions and faults will become as much a part of your life as the unforgettable rattling of the Illinois Central midnight run to Chicago or the grinding of the construction equipment throwing up another building. But, the noise and air of busyness are all a facade, covering up a battleground of wit against the world, a battleground where the challenger finds himself faced with the task of wading through an infinite complex of thought and activity with the only reward awaiting him of being able to meet the world on his own terms.

Archaic Altgeld has observed campus expansion to where it is now twentieth in enrollment and comprises ten schools and colleges.

Old Main symbolizes tradition for the 24,502 students enrolled in Southern's multi-campus state institution.

The Agriculture Building was constructed by the University to allow further agricultural research projects.

Morris Library, the largest open-stacked library in Illinois, contains over 700,000 volumes, adding 60,000 yearly.

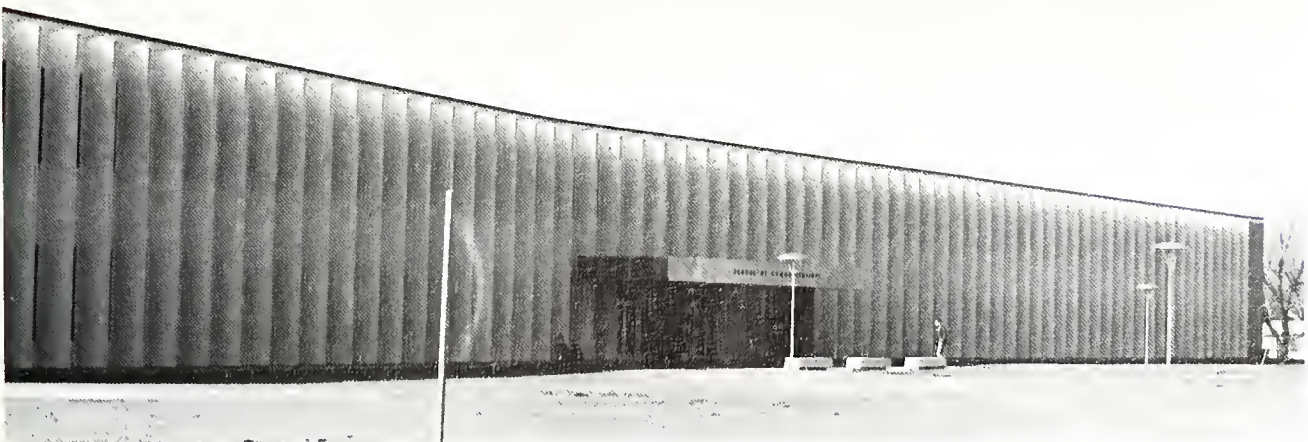

Construction continued on the three-stage building complex for the School of Technology.

The recently completed SIU Arena was built according to a hemispheric pattern and has a seating capacity of 10,014 spectators.

The Communications Building, opened in January has a theater seating 584, radio and television studios, and speech lab facilities.

Stack privileges allow students to pursue their studies in the library's large store of books and other collections.

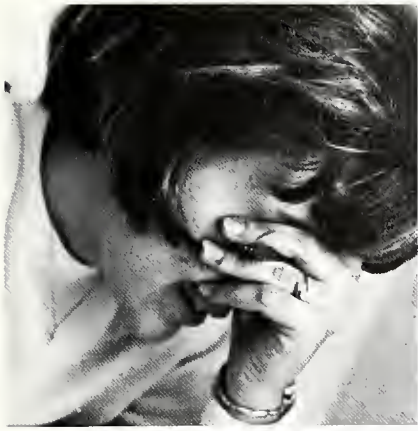

Experimental laboratories frequently provide the setting for the questing mind to be inflamed by the acquisition of new knowledge.

The beauty of discovering talent is that its individual expression and time-consuming pursuit is shared and appreciated by man.

Hours can be spent seeking answers to the unanswerable, but discovery forces the reorganization of one's perspective and intentions.

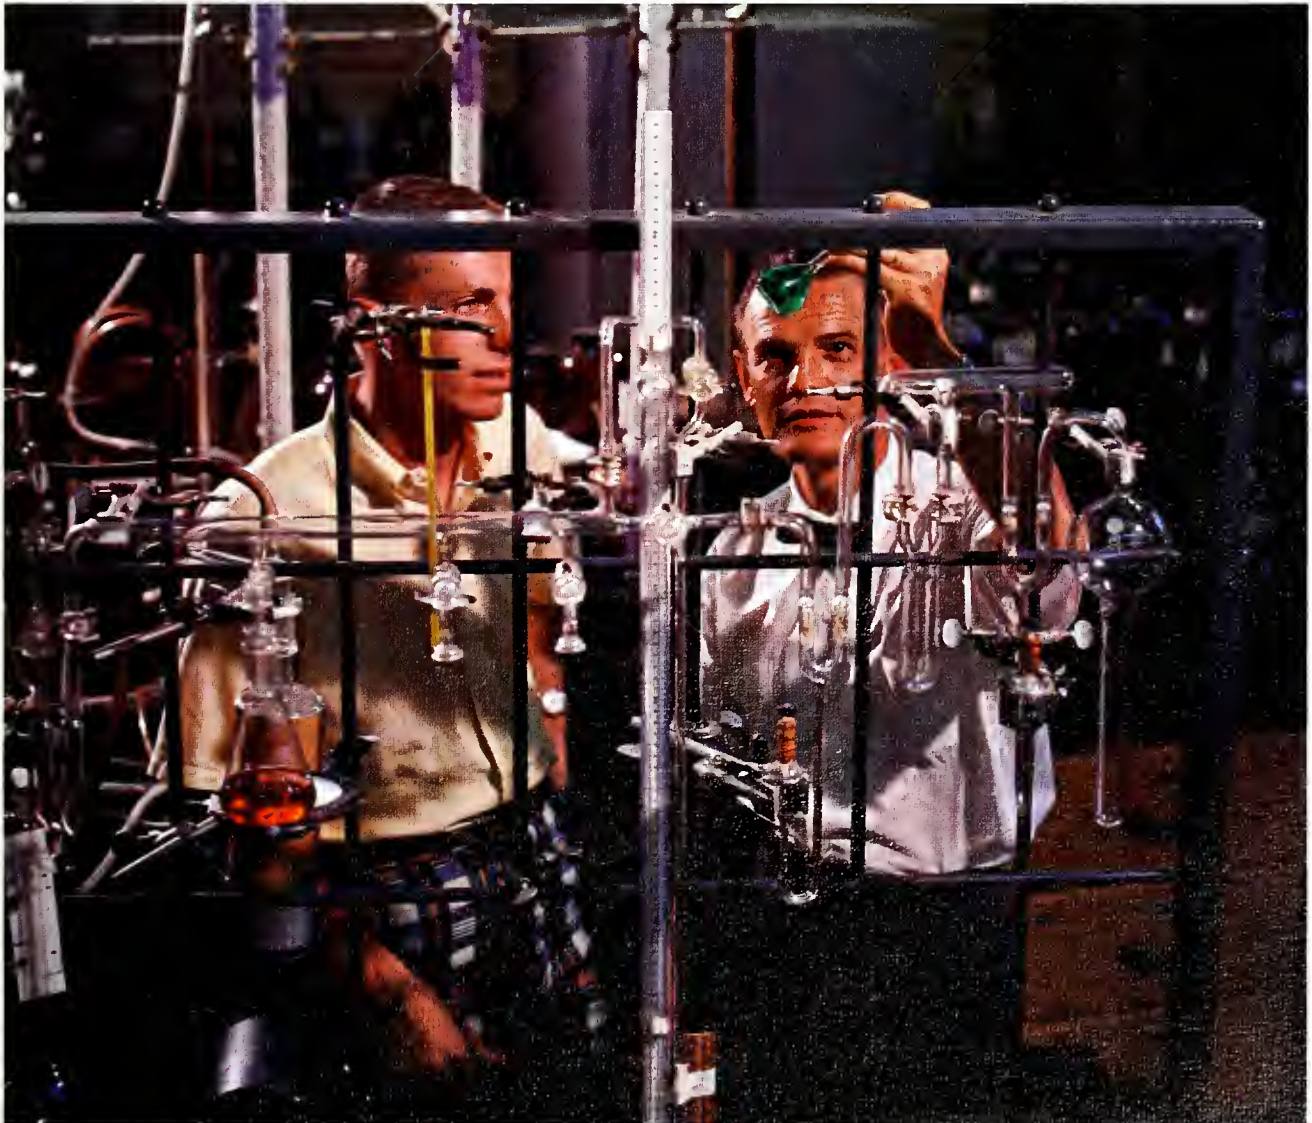

The silence of determined contemplation involves the student in an infinite search.

But it comes, sometimes to a few; in the seeds of doubt that the bent backed prof doesn't know the answer; or with the sudden realization that everyone is engaged in a fruitless pursuit of a dragon called wisdom. So you give up . . . and then you have it, sometimes.

Creativity . . . its thrill and disillusionment, represents the classical ideals marked on the souls of an improving, striving mind.

Despite the variety of private worlds, students seem to have a common enemy . . . time. The evil cloak of time envelopes the students as it carries them through vast arrays of human experiences in the whirl of college life. Each feels the push of time and each realizes that he must keep moving toward his aspired goals. The pace is established and success depends on pure stamina.

Love seems extraneous in a world of books and careers but nevertheless if love is there, time must be found to express its presence.

Marching in monotonous column seems to make time a fixed and sluggish reality which will not heed the pleas of bored minds.

It's a "go-go" world in which we live fast and grab for tomorrow but sometimes wish only for yesterday.

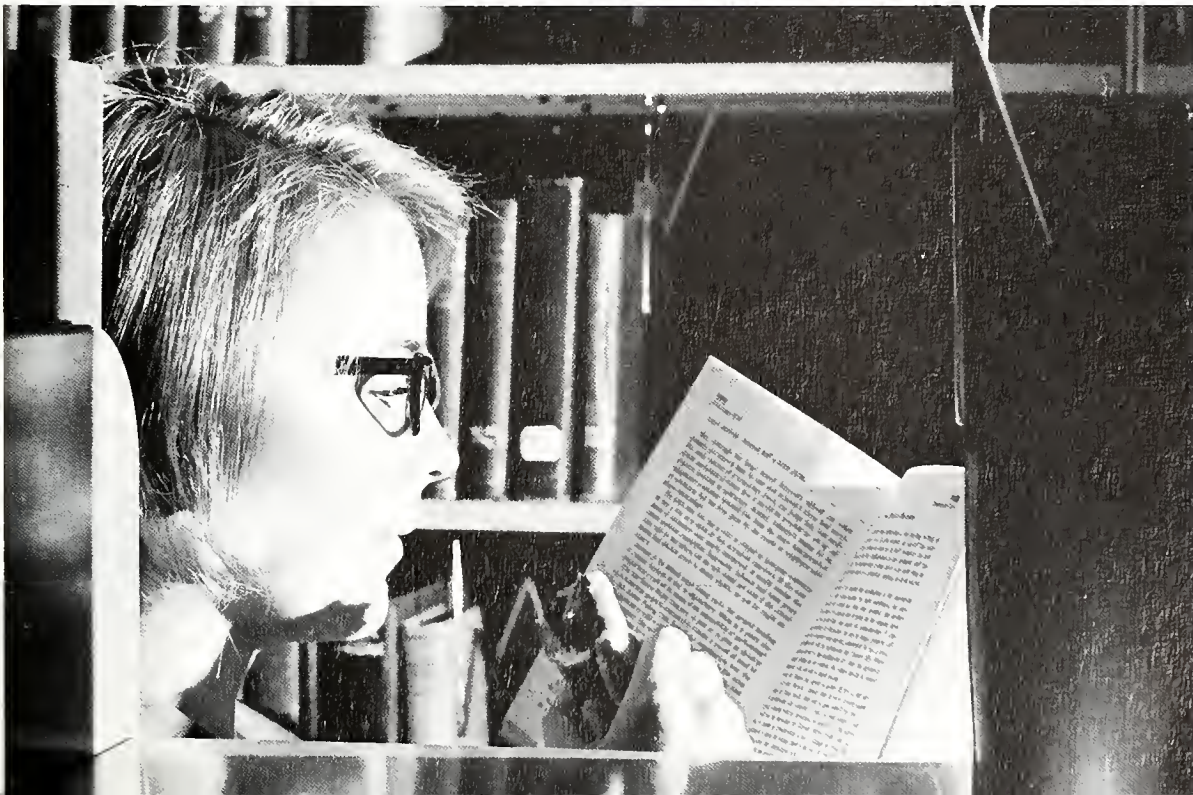

Winter is a time to walk aimlessly, kicking at the snow but schedules demand obedience so winter is ignored, only the cold remembered.

A class in the Arena followed by one in Wham finds a student, not blessed by a Honda, hard pressed to obey the 10-minute law.

Time waits for no man and neither does the professor so the student must sacrifice a leisurely lunch to study for next hour's test.

And after that last bit of knowledge for the day has been absorbed and calculated, the student runs away— into himself . . . to explore those private worlds-of-make believe and whimsy that are as much a part of the collegiate scene as the rally horns and beer mugs.

Besides being a focal point for boating and swimming activities, Lake-on-the-Campus offers spots for the fishing enthusiast.

. . . the touch of a mandolin, the strains of a winsome melody, communion with others, a feeling of calmness . . .

An exhausted spirit seems to receive miraculous revival when exposed to the aesthetic beauty and tranquility of Thompson Woods.

Occasionally the temptation to forfeit study time for a few precious moments of sleep becomes insurmountable for the exhausted.

The international face of SIU is reflected in the library pool as foreign students gather, arrayed in the garb of their native lands.

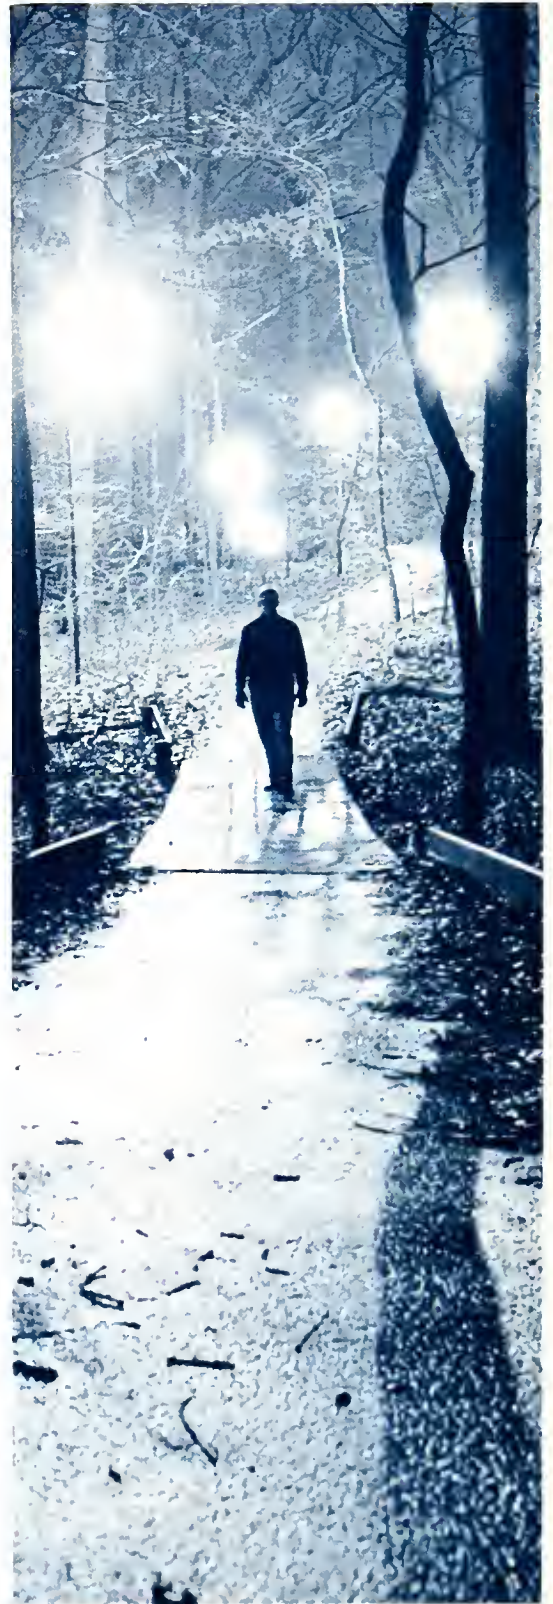

*Darkness falls and fuzzes the edges of reality.
It replaces the stark sunlight which glares unfeelingly on one's problems and mistakes. The black obliterates for a while the long paths which must be traveled and offers new exciting paths, perhaps a path to the moon, that are just within reach.*

And like a soothing balm, it enables one to awake refreshed in the morning and find that the sunlight promises to overlook yesterday's errors and shine lovingly on all tomorrows.

An architect's hands could not have planned the subtle beauty of buildings which are enclosed by night and enhanced by moonlight.

Being alone in the night can sometimes fill one with an acute and engulfing awareness of himself and his world.

Suddenly there is no other conceivable way to live for one must sit always in the moon listening to lapping water and distant voices.

To some, night is not a release but a tie which binds them to more study; a tie to be broken only by shutting the eyes.

A fairyland at night with jutting spires and smears of incandescent light, the SIU campus magically becomes a refuge for dreamers.

*He looked back one year, at the freshmen and at Homecoming, remembering a day when he had crumpled napkins and stuffed chicken wire.
“A waste of time with no ends met.”
But then, he was able to say that; after all he had traveled the road.*

With the evening of graduation each one realized that he was facing friends he might never see again but would remember.

An overloaded Honda, SIU's favorite mode of transportation, strains under a load of students and a tuba.

Grease paint, stage sets, dress rehearsals, tense moments—all seemed to blend into a successful show despite our misgivings.

A familiar sight at any Saluki game was the section of red, the Marching Salukis, who supplied background for rally cheers.

As Southern's oldest tradition, the cannon displays one of its many unusual decors.

Many of us became week-end carpenters as we added a few nails to our Homecoming float which was somehow always completed.

Moments together . . . a study date in the library, a cup of coffee after that last class, a quiet walk in the fallen leaves of September.

*The road is long and rough, but walking along that road, the student encounters others who are headed in the same direction. A short conversation and those persons become lasting and dear acquaintances . . .
then the walk
seems shorter and the road not nearly as rough.*

Novices Get First Glimpse of SIU

New Student Week began with the sounds of 4500 freshman feet trooping into The Arena for the first assembly. At this opening session, the freshmen got their first glimpse of President Morris. They were later able to meet the president informally at his annual Watermelon Feast. Throughout the week New Student Week leaders led groups of tired students through the mazes of registration, testing and sectioning. A talent show at the end of the week gave freshmen a chance to show upperclassmen that they intended to be a active part of Southern.

In the first of a series of packing and unpacking, this new student decides she has brought more than needed.

Although he follows a hectic schedule, President Morris finds time to meet many of the new students personally.

In the first week of school, new students were fooled into thinking that registration would always be a quick and efficient process.

New students, on arriving at the SIU campus, look partly in awe and partly in fear at the surroundings which are to be their home.

Nervously awaiting their big debut, performers in the Talent Show get in a last-minute practice session.

Receiving their first dose of anonymity, freshmen students hear a welcome which may help them forget feelings of insignificance.

Although it seems as if rain is determined to fall on the annual watermelon feast, it was still a success in the indoor atmosphere.

Alone in the spotlight, a singer, oblivious of the outsiders, sings what must be sung.

Experience is the best teacher this coed finds as she crosses the path of the cannon while the boys, in time-honored tradition, wait.

Work Plan Hikes Student Wages

"I need a work block" is a phrase heard often in the sectioning center. These five words are used by some 4000 students who are attempting to work their way through school by taking on jobs ranging from Entomological Collector and Preparator, to Accident Statistical Clerk. This year potential workers were encouraged by the new requirement of $1 an hour minimum wages. Available jobs are divided into 16 classifications; some which require no experience and others which require a background in a particular field. Efforts are made to put students into jobs which parallel their studies. The pay for the job depends upon the classification, a student being able to make as much as $2 an hour. Whether desiring to be a Waterfront Shift Supervisor or perhaps a Taxidermist a student can find a job suited for him on the SIU campus.

Since motorcycles have become so numerous, the security police have forsaken the woods and moved to the traveled thoroughfares.

A good sense of timing and direction and the ability to muffle out chattering voices are requisites for the job of student bus driver.

A good sense of direction is also necessary in the library, as student workers must weave their carts around tables to re-shelve the books.

Although it seems as if this student worker has an easy job, modeling for art classes requires much patience and untiring muscles.

Wearing thick soled shoes to prevent weary feet, the student postman traverses his mail route.

Mirrored on James Mulvaney's face are all of the frustrations that students on both sides of the table feel at sectioning.

The climax of a month of hard labor comes when the worker hands the girl his ID and receives his long awaited monetary reward.

Making a regal lineup, the queen and her attendants stand at the reception to greet guests who wish to congratulate and admire.

Homecoming Sees 'Southern's Scenes'

Preparations began weeks ahead of time. Floors which were covered with long strips of chicken wire, surrounded by napkins and students twisting and stuffing, began to blossom into white carpets and an occasional black footprint. Even King Menes came out of his year-long hibernation to conduct coronation ceremonies and to crown Jan Ockerby queen. On the following night, Homecoming enthusiasts clapped along, laughed with and applauded entertainers and still managed to rise the next morning at 10 for the parade of cannons and Old Mains. After the parade, which boasted 50 bands, 9 stunts and 20 floats, the crowds rushed to McAndrew in hopes of getting a seat to watch the famous Tulsa Hurricanes in action. The remainder of the day was spent in attending open houses or smokers and getting ready for the evening. In the haze of decorations and party dresses, couples swayed to the music of Tex Benecke at the dance which climaxed weeks of planning and one hectic weekend.

A silhouetted Saluki captures the spirit of the Homecoming bonfire as he captured hearts of parade viewers.

Swinging the blues, Nancy Wilson's free and easy style caught the mood of the college crowd.

After being announced as Mr. and Miss Freshman, Wally DeLuca and MiMi McCarthy lit the bonfire which began festivities.

Homecoming weekend was made all the more enjoyable by the clear warm weather which graced the campus in October.

Relaxing with a tall glass of Southern Comfort, this Saluki doesn't seem to care that he made Wilson Manor and Ivy Hall winners.

Thompson Point featured a queen from the area, house decorations that won first, and, for the first time, a colorful float.

In order to incorporate scenes from the Southern Illinois Airport into the theme, Alpha Eta Rho had to ground two of its planes.

Paper, glue, water, and perhaps a little prayer held the Alpha Gamma Delta decorations long enough to win first place.

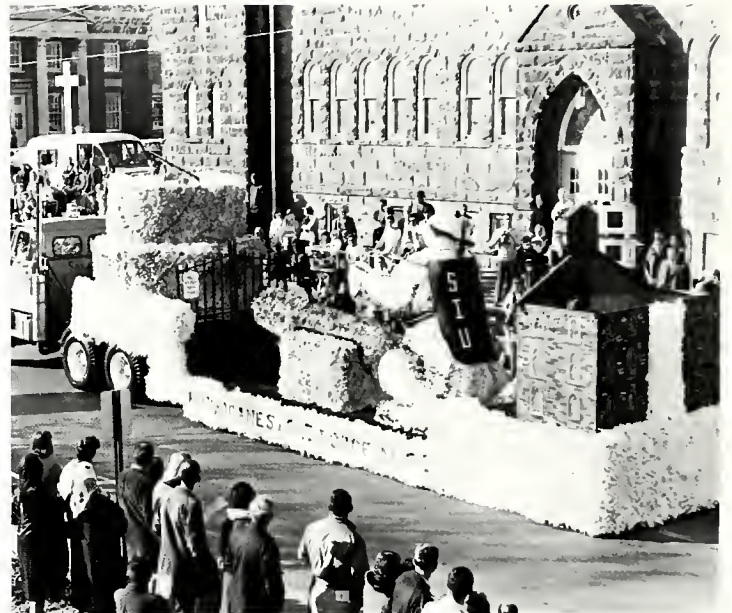

A happy Jan Ockerby, the ninth blond queen to reign, is given the red cape, tiara, and roses that are the mark of her position.

Viewers met "the nicest pledges on a honda" as the Alpha Gamma Delta girls scooted into first place in the women's stunt division.

No one is too young to be the object of queen Jan Ockerby's grin as she greets her subjects at the reception.

Although Old Main and the cannon proved to be an over-worked theme, Saluki Hall and Saluki Arms used the two originally.

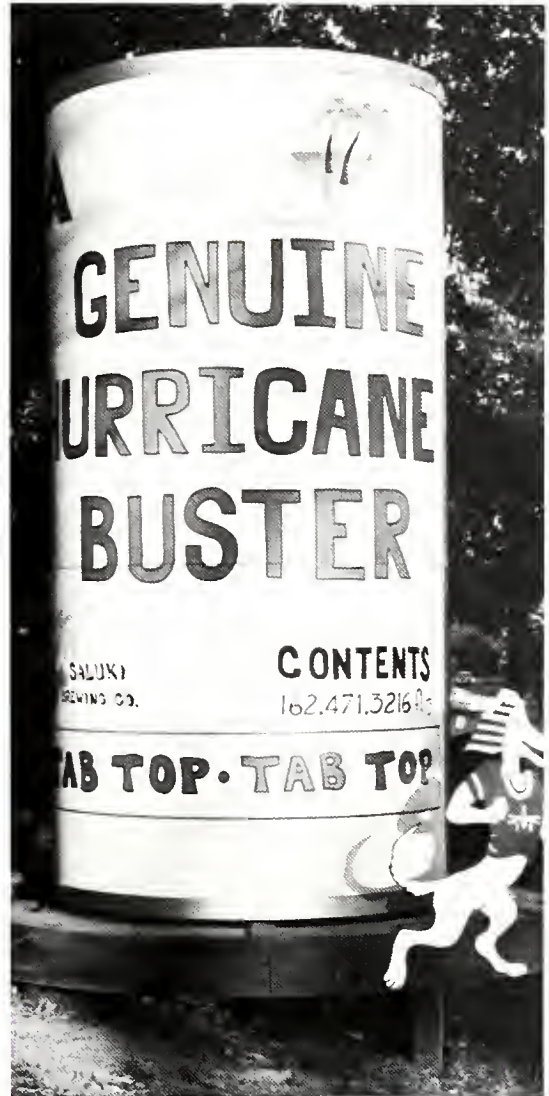

"The Deadly Pass" was deadly competition for other floats in the men's division as Phi Sigma Kappa took first place.

Bowyer and Bailey Halls were not equipped to run down all competition as they tied for first with Baldwin and Abbott Halls.

Although Southern lost the football game 55—12, football fans saw just why the Tulsa Hurricanes were rated so highly.

For their concoction of "Egyptian Ale," which was later filled with soap for Viet Nam, College View took first Parents who did not feel like hiking but still wanted to see SIU, sit and wait for the "This Is Southern" slides shown in the center.

Parents' Day began in the University Center as parents signed in for a day promising to be a key to the world of their offspring.

Red Carpet Rolls Out for Parents

After registering early in the morning, the 1,000 sets of parents who took part in Parents' Day set out to be educated and entertained. Their education consisted of a footsore three-hour trek across campus followed by a parents' convocation and buffet. The entertainment, which again required that parents be as active as their offspring, involved loud cheering for the home football team and for the Parents of the Day, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Larson and Mr. and Mrs. Les Meredith. After-the-game entertainment meant more shuffling of weary feet as parents danced in the close of Parents' Day.

For those who wanted to ask questions about SIU or simply wanted to buy a magazine or postcard, the Information Desk was open.

At the annual Parents' Day football game, Southern vs Northern Michigan, the Larsons and the Merediths, were honored.

A buffet in the University Center gave parents the opportunity to assuage appetites that had been growing during the day's activities.

Congenial company and much small talk made for a very pleasant afternoon at President Morris' tea for the parents of the day.

Numerous Concerts Head Holiday Fare

With Christmas tunes issuing loudly from the WSIU radio station and the "Daily Egyptian" heralding the Third Annual Season of Holidays celebration at Southern, students were able to forget encroaching exams and become caught up in the Holiday spirit. Christmas is not complete without a tree so the first event planned was a Christmas Tree Ornament contest which was followed by the decorating of the 40-foot tree in front of the University Center. Throughout the week campus choirs sang joyfully the songs of the Advent season. Christmas at Southern was not reserved solely for adults as the sounds of children's laughter could be heard emanating from the numerous parties sponsored by campus organizations. But all could not remain merry forever. Christmas at SIU was over with the start of finals and students had to wait two weeks before continuing the season at home.

Raising their voices to praise the coming of Christ, the Oratorio Choir and the University Choir presented the Holiday Concert.

Adding a festive touch to the dormitory decor, a coed puts aside her books to enter into the Christmas spirit.

The question of how to find enough ornaments to decorate a 40-foot tree was solved by an ornament contest.

Santa Claus is for children but the adults after seeing the children's reaction to him almost wished for a second childhood.

At his annual Doughnut Hour, President Morris entertained students by reading selections describing Christmas celebrations.

"This many" seemed to be just the right age to take part in and enjoy the Christmas party given for children of the faculty.

Appearing to be the epitome of decorum, the cast of Flower Drum Song dispelled the image becoming involved in comical chaos.

Dramatists Slip into Make-up Character

The problem of Maria was solved by the nuns in The Sound of Music who sent her to be a governess for the Baron Von Trapp.

With the many musical and dramatic productions produced on the SIU campus, a student cannot complain that he has not had a chance to display his creative abilities. If a student has theatrical aspirations, whether he be an amateur or a professional, he may try out for and join such organizations as the Southern Players, Interpreters' Theater, the Summer Music Theater or the Opera Workshop. Southern's dramatic opportunities are not limited only to those who wish to become stars. So for those who cannot act but cannot stay away from the smell of the grease paint, there are many behind the scene jobs, such as working on lighting, makeup or prop crews. For those who simply enjoy watching the show, tickets to see SIU's young thespians perform are available to everyone.

A musical comedy about parental influence in young love, The Fantastics featured Burt Dikelsky and Dick Barton.

Little Mary Sunshine, the second offering of the summer, is a spoof of the operettas of the 20th century.

Casting for The Sound of Music seemed to be a problem as the director had to find seven children who could act as well as sing.

Summer Theater offered dramatic fare such as Benet's John Brown's Body to offset the lighthearted mood of summer school.

In the August production of The Miracle Worker, Claire Malis portrayed Ann Sullivan and Judy Mueller played Helen Keller.

Presented at SIU by a touring company, Stop the World I Want to Get Off featured Jackie Warner.

Athenian soldiers show the effects of their lack of love as a result of a sex strike in Aristophanes' Lysistrata.

Tom experiences the proudest moment of his life when he attends his own funeral in the production of Tom Sawyer.

In a famous scene from Tom Sawyer, Tom convinces his friend that it is a privilege to whitewash the fence and pay for it.

Myrrhinga, played by Maurie Ayllon, refuses her husband love in Lysistrata as she conspires to stop war.

In Southern Players' August production of Inherit the Wind, David Selby, Richard Johnson and Michael Flanagan had leads.

Revue-in-Blue Dropped from Military Ball

Lifted rifles and sober faces formed a passage of honor for the 225 couples attending the Military Ball. Planning for the ball began well in advance under the direction of Martha Edmison. Invitations were sent, entertainment was scheduled and publicity was spread over the campus. Ten girls were nominated as queen candidates but soon the field was narrowed to five by the Arnold Air Society. The queen was finally presented at the ball by Captain Corich, master of ceremonies. With military precision, the couples blended on the dance floor until raised rifles signalled the exit and the approach of 0100 hours.

Waiting for their cars which were parked for them by the AFROTC Honor Guard, couples realize the big night is over.

Torch singer Jo Plummer offered a different diversion from the soft swing of the Gary Dammer Orchestra which played at the ball.

Making each girl feel like a queen and each man like an important official, the Honor Guard solemnly marked the entrance.

At a pre-ball style show in the Oasis, members of Angel Flight modeled proper dance attire.

During the winter, male students forgot what the coeds' legs looked like under their multi-color camouflage.

“Would You Believe . . .”

“The times they are a changing” and so each year marks the advent of some new look, idea or action on campus. The look may be pigtails with bright ribbons; the action, playing jacks; and the idea, a regression to the carefree days of youth. Or the look may be long straight hair on male and female; the action, carrying protest signs; and the idea, more voice in adult affairs. Even the clean cut frat man and the well-scrubbed coed who flock to watch Batman and James Bond, are living by momentary ideals. These momentary ideals—the new looks, ideas and actions—are relegated to the classification of a fad. If one looks closely at the fad, however, he will gain insight and find that this is more than a fad, it is a search for an acceptable way of life.

Whether an attempt to be youthful or merely to keep their straight hair out of their eyes, coeds adopted pigtails.

With daring prowess, bruised bodies and sometimes broken bones, students jumped on the skateboard craze.

In the anonymous atmosphere of SIU, students are able to try out a number of roles before finding their identity.

Jacks used to be a girl's game but at SIU it became a competitive pastime engaged in by both female and male students.

A living vestige of the pop art craze, Batman became a name on everyone's lips as the superhero swept into Southern's TV lounges.

In June, Felts Hall man and Woody Hall coeds broke a phonathon record of 2½ weeks of constant talking in order to drum up dates.

Delegates to the eighth annual Model UN applaud heartily in appreciation of a remark made by Clarence Hendershot.

80 Countries Represented in Model UN

Macy Dorf, delegate from Cuba, cast stirring invectives on U. S. foreign policy while praising Cuban foreign policy.

Patterned much like the United Nations, the annual Model UN included various activities lasting two days and nights. 1966 marked the eighth year for the Model UN which played host to approximately 250 delegates. Clarence Hendershot, assistant dean of International Services, opened the program whose theme was "International Law." Mwabili Kisaka, counselor from Kenya, was the keynote speaker. Students taking part in the program were assigned related work to earn an hour of academic credit.

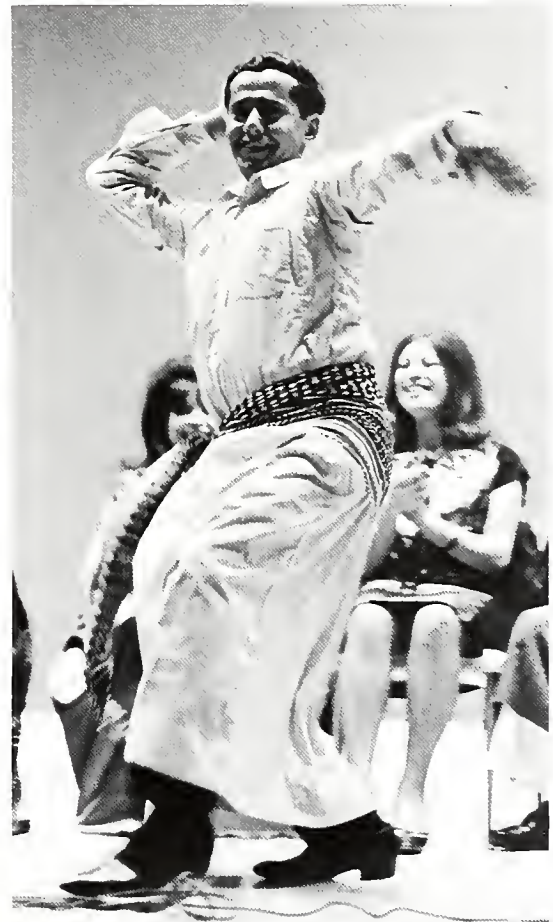

The strenuous job of representing the United States required Ted Orf to be constantly on his feet defending U.S. policy.

23 Acts Presented at International Night

The International Night Program gave American students the opportunity to observe the culture and dress of foreign students.

Decking the bride in wedding finery, the Indian Students Association presented an act depicting an Indian marriage ceremony.

"Arab A GO Go," presented by the Arab Student Organization, was a take-off on American Discothiques.

Visiting Artists Display Great Diversity

Former governor of Puerto Rico, Rexford Tugwell appeared in conjunction with the Pan American Festival.

Henny Youngman, a comedian noted for his one-line gags, kept the Homecoming audience laughing.

By sponsoring a visiting artist's program, Southern offers students the opportunity to expose themselves to ideas other than those of the campus. This program of exposure brings a number of prominent people to the campus. Whether the visiting artist be a popular entertainer, like Nancy Wilson, a choral group like the Norman Luboff Choir or a lecturer prominent in his field like M. Stanton Evans, the SIU student can listen to the message he brings and by incorporating memorable parts of this message into his thought, can add to his education.

Popular folk singers. Peter, Paul and Mary, who were brought to SIU in April by the TP Programming Board, drew full houses.

Famed winner of two Pulitzer prizes, Robert Penn Warren read his unpublished poetry on campus.

Composed of five members, Jay and the Americans sang such hits as "Come a Little Bit Closer" and "Cara Mia" in October.

Artist in residence, Thomas Kinsella discussed "Yeats" and "Contemporary Irish Poetry" at the Yeats Festival.

Sponsored by the Campus Folk Art Society, The New Lost City Ramblers who have performed at Carnegie Hall, were on campus.

'Mr. Booz' Wins Theta Xi for Sig Kaps—Phi Sigs

In a flurry of bright costumes, shaky scenery, and flashing lights, the Theta Xi Variety Show got under way. Paul Anderson, opened the show by telling everyone to turn around and introduce himself to the person behind him. This, he claimed, would make the audience warm up. And the audience proved to be very "warm" as they laughed at the antics of pantomimist David Beckett or assumed a solemnity befitting of Kellogg Hall's version of The Lord's Prayer. Although the entertainment was of high caliber, the 17-act show was long and everyone welcomed the last act—the Theta Xi Pledge Act. The skit, which is non-competitive, was entitled the Jackie Grossum Show and featured scenes from Southern. At the end of the Saturday night performance, the winners were announced, and amidst their tears and cheers, the 19th annual Theta Xi Variety Show came to close.

Their soft swinging style of singing "folk" swung Moody & Co. into first place in the intermediate division.

Paul Anderson, a disc jockey on WMAQ Chicago who acted as master of ceremony, kept the crowd entertained.

After a raid by the police, the Sig Kap-Phi Sig speak-easy became a revival meeting house for repenters.

Barefoot and in peasant dress, Judy Sablotny sang Porgy and Bess to win a second place.

The new sound of jazz offered by Ramsey Lewis was ably imitated by the B. Carol Randle Trio who won a first place.

A rollicking offering of "Prohibition or How I Learned To Speak Easy" won the Sig Kaps and the Phi Sigs a first place trophy.

The ever-continuing battle between the sexes was aptly portrayed in the Phi Tau and Alpha Gam skit entitled "Comedy Tonight."

Health Service was the object of a "healthy" laugh as it was satirically pictured by the Theta Xi pledges in a skit.

The Delta Zetas and Delta Chis showed the audience what Paris was really like in their second place show "So This Is Paris."

In a hilarious take-off on the June Taylor Dancers, the Joe Taylor Dancers sprawled in formation for the Theta Xi pledge skit.

Happiness, hugs and general pandemonium greeted the judge's announcement of the winners of the 1966 Theta Xi Variety Show.

Backed up by a lively band, the Salt and Pepper singers belted out their version of "soul" music.

Makeshift dressing tables could be seen all over the midway as the girls put on the final touches before the Big Show.

President Morris characterized a mood that predominated Spring Festival as "rising campus spirits in the spring." Construction started in campus backyards was dismantled and moved to the midway site for opening night. On a Friday night, "Great Moments of Music" opened as frantic students rushed about polishing off last-minute details. The thousands of people crowding the midway forgot the heat as they hissed the villain in the Phi Sigma-Tri Sigma's "Southern Belle" or sang along to the familiar tunes in "Memories from Broadway" presented by Sigma Pi and Sigma Kappa. Wilson Manor and L.E.A.C. gave students a taste of big-city entertainment in their first-place booth "Gottcha-A-Go-Go." Delta Chi and Delta Zeta's geodesic dome proved that sometimes the facade was as interesting as the show inside. At the close, "rising campus spirits" fell as students cleaned up the remnants of a spring weekend.

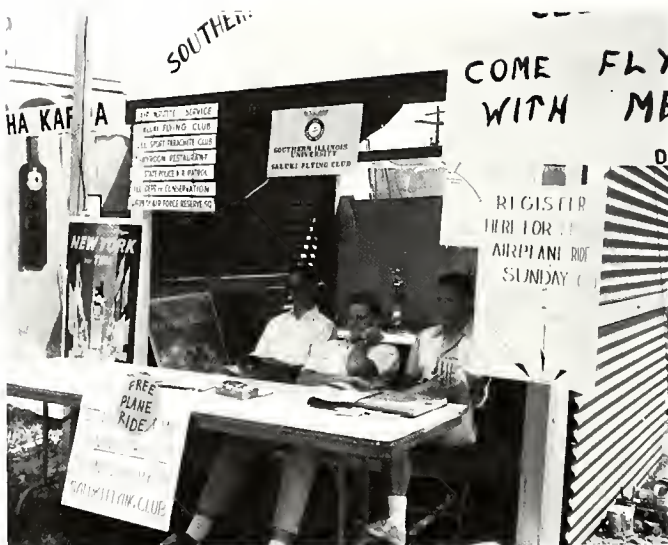

"Gee, Officer Krumpke . . .", sing the boys in the Sigma Pi-Sigma Kappa show, which tied for first place on the midway.

'Showboat' Takes the Festival Championship

The "Southern Belle", built in the style of a 19th Century river-boat, steamed into the grand championship berth.

The Saluki Flying Club planted its exhibit firmly on the ground to win first place in the display division.

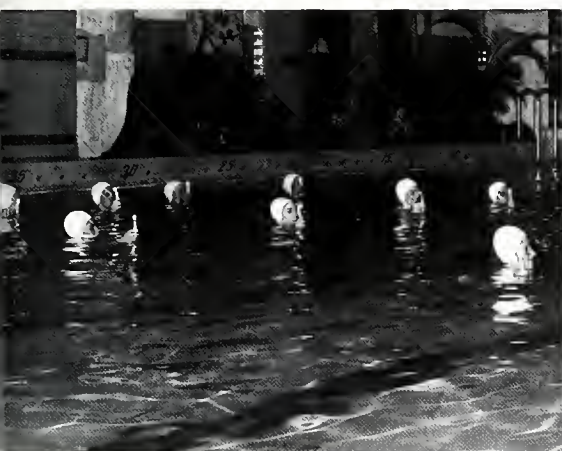

Thirsty crowds stopped in "Gottcha-A-Go-Go" to refresh with "Stags" who were very refreshing.

Belting out a song in the tradition of the Old West dance hall girl, Judy Delap shows what it takes to have a first place show.

The many hours of work expended in the weeks preceding Spring Festival make it a much awaited annual event.

As a finale to their hour-long show of water ballet, the Aquaettes swam with candles in a darkened pool.

The backyards of Greek Row looked like campus construction sites as students prepared well in advance for the event.

The Phi Kappa Tau's prize-winning booth told midway goers to put it "In Your Ear" while riding on a skateboard.

Even a muddy soaking felt good after the long hot Tug-a-War which was a preliminary event.

The masses that crowded the midway were orderly compared to the melee that broke out when winners were announced.

The blur of lights which was Spring Festival could be most advantageously seen from the top of the ferris wheel.

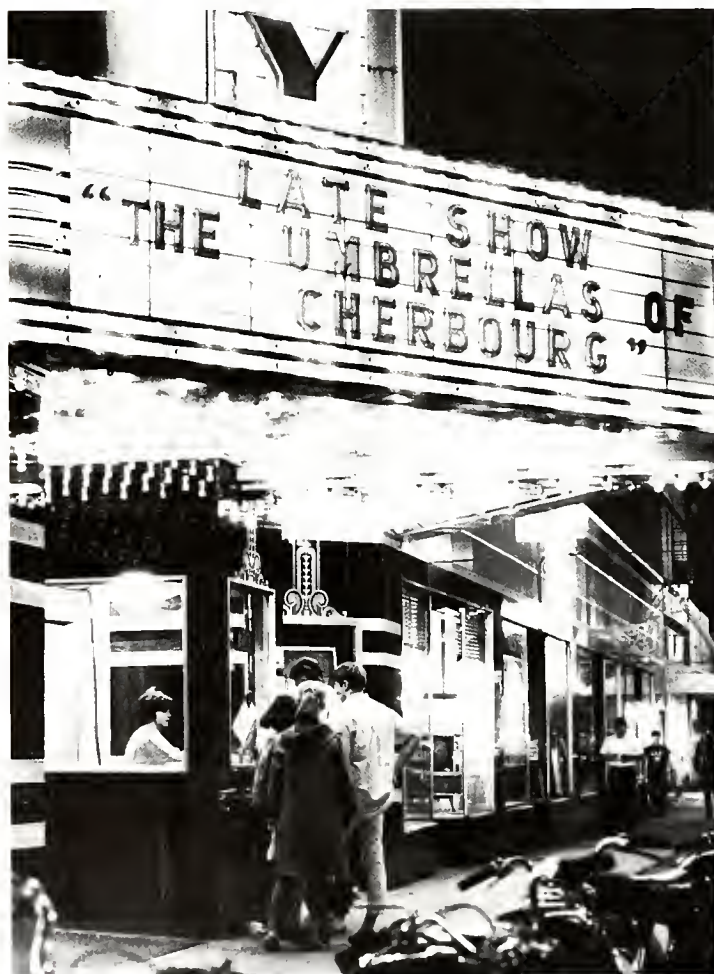

The Festival would not have been a success without unseen students working behind the scenes.

The sparkle and glitter of the Spring Festival midway can be credited to a few paint cans and many willing hands.

Leisure Hours Provide a Necessary Diversion

Deep conversation over coffee at the University Center, an evening engrossed in Nancy Wilson, heads bent in concentration over books within the silence of Morris Library, balcony seats at the Varsity Late Show, a late-night meander through Thompson Woods, a wind-blown Honda ride on Campus Drive,
exhaustive dancing on the party "circuit",
infectious excitement
of the school-spirited at The Arena:
these were the date lines and the life-lines of Southern.

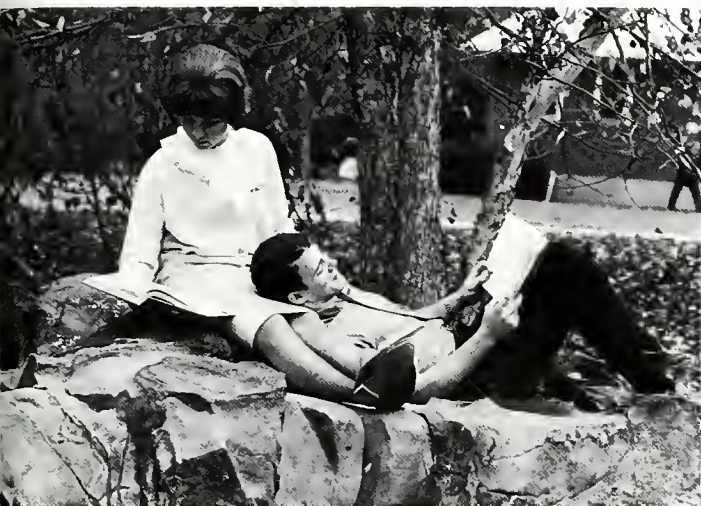

Many couples searching for entertainment after entertainment find the late show provides an opportunity to prolong an enjoyable date.

Oblivious to the R.F.'s last warning call of "hours", boy and girl reminisce about a wonderful evening.

Interesting conversation often occurs underneath the table as well as over the table on the University Center Patio.

On warm days the Morris Library lawn proves to be a more convenient place to study than inside the library confines.

Flaunting the fact that some University facilities seem to be reserved for males, this couple engages in an intense game of pool.

Transportation on date nights may be by car or by Honda but often it is by the couple's own "manpower."

Love makes food irrelevant, whether toasting glasses of sparkling champagne or sharing a single drive-in milk shake.

Beauties on Campus Are a Common Occurrence

It has been said that all girls are beautiful in some way or another. Queens do not possess all the world's beauty—they only represent it. Consequently, Southern's queens only represent Southern's beauty. They signify the pulchritude of SIU. These girls were not elected Queens yet they have a certain charm. They walk down the same paths as Miss Southern, Miss Thompson Point, and the Homecoming Queen. They are Southern's beauties.

Homecoming Queen

Janice Ockerby

Cheerleader Jan Ockerby was usually situated on the sidelines leading the applause. When pronounced Homecoming Queen, however, she took stage center and the applause was hers alone. A petite green-eyed blond, Jan represented Thompson Point where she is a popular figure, having been runner-up for 1965 Miss T.P., Jan is a mathematics major from Creve Coeur.

A Special Education major from Marion, Priscilla Henshaw, was selected Miss Southern and represented SIU in the Miss Illinois Pageant. Her competition included a dramatic reading backed by her own recording of When Johnny Comes Marching Home. Priscilla was selected Miss Illinois "Big Sister" and was asked to serve as official judge in the '66 Miss Illinois Contest.

Military Ball Queen

Being Military Ball Queen seems to have been a natural step for Velda Smith in her military career as an angel. Velda has served in various offices and chairmanships in Angel Flight and was ROTC's choice for Little Major. But the petite brunette does not limit her talents to Angel Flight as she is also active in dorm life. Only a sophomore, Velda has already begun to establish a niche for herself among SIU VIPs.

Velda Smith

Miss Thompson Point

Miss Thompson Point, Barb Goerke, is not new to the beauty contest field. In 1962 she was Military Ball Queen semifinalist and in 1964, was a Homecoming Queen candidate. Barb was nominated by Felts Hall and after much hard competition won the honor of being the most lovely coed at Thompson Point. An English major from Herrin, twenty-two year old Barb is now doing graduate work in Higher Education.

Miss Southern Acres

Sherry Gates

Sherry Gates, a junior from St. Louis, was picked from a field of seven contestants to be Miss Southern Acres. Sherry was judged in evening gown and swim suit competition, as well as by talent. In her comedy ballet danced to "Swan Lake," Sherry blacked out her teeth and put her hair in pigtails to delight the audience with her imitation of a little girl's first ballet recital.

Miss Woody

Becky Hindman

"What would you do if your date showed up sloppily dressed to meet your parents?" was the question asked of Becky Hindman in the Miss Woody Contest. Becky was nominated by her floor and went on to win the contest. A freshman in music, Becky is a member of University Choir and Oratorio Choir. For her talent in the contest, the blue-eyed blonde sang "More," "Till" and "Unchained Melody" and accompanied herself on the piano to win Miss Woody.

Off-Campus Sweetheart

Margaret Ennis

A transfer student from Edgewood College of the Sacred Heart in Wisconsin, Margaret Ennis, after being nominated by Saluki Arms and Saluki Hall and finally selected by the vote of students at the dance, was crowned Off-Campus Sweetheart. The tall, dark-haired junior from Lockport is vice president of Saluki Arms and a member of the Newman Club. As an English major, Peggy relaxes by playing the piano.

Mrs. Southern

Formerly an Alpha Kappa Psi sweetheart and a member of Angel Flight, Dianne Lee was crowned Mrs. Southern after emerging from five finalists. Diane, the wife of basketball player David Lee and the mother of a 15-month old son, was asked the apt question during the final judging, "What do you think about the NCAA scholarships?"

Dianne Lee

Beauty and the Beast

"Ick, he's really ugly. Give him a quarter." And so quarters and pennies added up to over $300 in the Beauty and The Beast contest sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega. Any male who is willing to twist and distort his face into monster caricatures and any female who is willing to stand beside him to make a suitable contrast are eligible to enter the contest. The returns from the contest go to the charity of the winners' choice. This year's beauty and beast chose the Heart Fund. But charity is not the only recipient as winners receive gift certificates from local businesses.

Audiences Laud Complementary Operas

The daughter of Madame Flora in The Medium was Monica, played by Gloria Smith, who opens the opera by wishing that she were a queen.

To make her seances seem real, Madame Flora has Monica imitate voices of people recalled from the dead.

A double bill featuring Gianni Schicchi and The Medium headlined the Opera Workshop's major performance of the year. Presented in February, the two operas complement each other as Gianni Schicchi is a farcical comedy and The Medium a tragic drama. Gianni Schicchi, written by Puccini, is about a clever rascal who impersonates a dead man in order to will all of the money to himself. The Medium, composed in 1945 by Menotti, is a modern-day opera describing the tragedy of a secess, Madame Flora. Portrayed by Marjorie Lawrence, Flora has no scruples but when she is touched by a cold hand during a seance, she tries to drown her terror in alcohol and loses herself in moments of insanity.

In a moving scene from The Medium, Madame Flora tries to tell the deaf Toby, whom she later kills, that she loves him as a son.

A clever imposter, Schicchi, portrayed by Glen Bater, dictates a will to his lawyers which leaves him all of Buoso's money.

In an aria entitled "Oh Black Swan," Madame Flora, who is losing her mind, sings of terrible things that are going to happen.

Gianni Schicchi characters take a final curtain call and hope that tomorrow night's cast will have as responsive an audience.

Students Acquire Education Despite Handicap

Because of Southern's excellent facilities, many disabled students come to the Carbondale campus in hopes of finding a place which will cater to their particular handicap. Upon arriving at SIU, they go directly to the Disabled Student Service's Office and receive forms which advise them on such matters as wheelchair repair, pre-registration, and bus service. This office will also help them find suitable housing and a student aide, if necessary, to assist them in their daily living activities. At the SIU Cooperative Clinical Center, students are able to attend regular therapy sessions. At SIU, doors are open to these students which had previously been closed. They have a future because Southern has fulfilled its obligation to make higher education an institution open to all.

Working together, whether doing household chores or studying, is very important in Thomas and Katherine Sherman's home.

Kathy Bielfeldt now knows the campus so well that she is able to get to classes without student direction.

Although his duties as a resident fellow and student take up much of his time, Jim Greenwood finds a moment to help another student.

By venturing onto the campus scene, rehabilitation students show their desire to become involved in the various experiences of life.

An avid pool player, Don Feldstein finds that sometimes the prospectus afforded from sitting is to his advantage.

Participating in the Paralympics in England entitled Nina Kirn to two world records, four gold medals and a happy welcome home.

Honors Given for Outstanding Service

Southern sponsors Scholastic Honors Day and Activities Recognition Day each year in May to pay tribute to those who have made outstanding contributions to the school. At the Honors Day program, those who have made the dean's list are recognized along with winners of various scholarships and initiates to SIU honor fraternities. At Activities Recognition Day, the Faculty Sphinx Award, was presented to David J. Potter, a speech professor. In March at the Theta Xi Variety Show, President Morris presented the Service to Southern awards.

2,750 Receive Degrees in Two Ceremonies

Arranged by school or college and led by the faculty, degree candidates jubilantly file in to begin the graduation exercises.

Making up the row of SIU's "top brass," members of the administration view the culmination of their educational endeavors.

The traditional setting for Southern's graduation, McAndrew Stadium, was the location of the 1965 spring and summer commencement exercises. At these two ceremonies, President Morris awarded 2,750 degrees as proud parents and friends looked on. Those unable to attend were given the opportunity to watch the exercises on WSIU-TV or to listen on WSIU-FM radio. June graduates listened to guest speaker Carter Davidson give the principal address and looked on as nine retiring professors were honored. At the August ceremonies, graduates heard Dr. Charles Tenney speak on "Commencement: A Backward Look." Southern, however, was looking anything but backward as it graduated the largest number of students in its history.

The bleachers were so crowded it seemed that the only seats were behind graduates.

Looking for that one familiar face, an anxious mother peers through her binoculars at the proceedings on the field.

Memories of SIU fill some graduates' minds while others are perhaps thinking that this is the last time to stand in line.

Four long years of more than ordinary struggle was well worth while judging by the happy look on the face of this senior.

Carter Davidson, president of the Association of American Colleges, gave the June address.

Lake Proves Hub of Summer School Activity

The lazy days of summer were anything but lazy for the 11,088 students who remained at SIU to go to summer school. Getting up for class was a sacrifice as morning sessions started at 7:30. Any afternoon classes, however, were regarded as a sign of general ineptness on the part of the sectioners as students needed these hours to bask in the sun. But the days could not be as full as the nights were. Students were forced to decide whether to soak up knowledge or the variety of beverages offered at Crab Orchard Lake. Also in the offing were plays, concerts, musical productions and those old stand-bys—the dances in the University Center. After final exams, students rushed home to prepare to attend SIU for another year.

Eyes covered by sunglasses pose the puzzling question of whether this coed is studying the English sentence or the American male.

Married couples venture out of quiet apartments to prove that the summer sun's potency draws others besides single students.

Sometimes scientific concepts can be learned better by application proves this coed as she sacrifices class period to experiment.

Standing on the brown sand of campus beach and pretending it is the silver sand of Hawaii is the formula for a successful luau.

Caught for a moment between a Huck Finn desire to paddle forever and the urge to rest aching arms, they finally head for shore.

Delyte Morris Finishes Eighteenth Year as President

In addition to maintaining a home for her husband, Mrs. Delyte Morris frequently entertains at luncheons and speaks at banquets.

Both the academic progress and the physical expansion of Southern Illinois University can be attributed to the services of Delyte Wesley Morris, who has been president for the past eighteen years. Dr. Morris is continually recognized both locally and nationally for the achievements of the University regarding the improvement of Southern Illinois and the training of educated citizenry. The minister of education of the African Republic of Mali hailed SIU's assistance in upgrading the education program in his country. Dr. Morris' responsibilities included extensive trips made to many states and foreign nations. One trip this year took him to England where he attended the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors.

President Morris chatted with Irish musician, Miss Bobby O'Brien at the Medieval banquet in Burratty Castle, Ireland.

Despite accomplishments, President Delyte Wesley Morris continues to outline plans for the University.

Board of Trustees Approves New Construction

The Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University is composed of seven members approved by the governor and the senate. The state superintendent of public instruction also serves as an ex officio member of the board. The board, serving as the final authority on governmental and managerial matters, approved a new University Park complex, biological sciences building, stadium, additions to the student center and an administration building this year.

Governor Otto Kerner spoke at one of the Young Democrats meetings in February.

Tenney Coordinates Educational Programs

The vice-president for planning and review, Dr. Charles D. Tenney, began his career at the University 35 years ago. He has previously served as staff vice-president for instruction until the central administration was reorganized in 1964. Dr. Tenney assists the president and faculty in coordinating the educational planning of the University. To do this he reviews proposed new programs, plans of organization, and the operating papers of various divisions.

After obtaining his doctor's degree from the University of Oregon, Dr. Tenney taught there for some time. Since coming to Southern in 1931, he has given many years of service both in the administrative capacity and as a professor of English and philosophy. Dr. Tenney has also had several articles published in magazines and journals.

Robert W. MacVicar is the chief officer for academic affairs. In this capacity he is the general executive and coordinator for the instructional, research, and publications of the University. His responsibility for these programs, as well as others assigned to him by the president, is assumed for both the University campuses.

Dr. MacVicar participated in Operation North Star this year by traveling to the Arctic with the Air Force. This trip took a group of Air Force officers and civilian educators up the western coast of Greenland, across the Arctic Sea to Alaska. Dr. MacVicar, a Rhodes Scholar of Oxford, has served as consultant to the U.S. Office of Education, the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Science Foundation.

Dr. MacVicar spoke at the AAUP at the Student Christian Foundation on campus.

Ruffner Advises Student and Area Policies

Ralph Windsor Ruffner
Vice-President for Student and Area Services

Dr. Ruffner, former educational officer for the United States in India, offers his services to the foreign students on campus.

After experiencing three successful careers as educator, soldier and statesman, Ralph W. Ruffner came to Southern in 1965 as vice-president of student and area services for both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses. In his capacity Dr. Ruffner guides and directs the services that come under his office, but this task is further complicated by the fact that those services vary from communications to student work and financial assistance.

Dr. Ruffner was with the United States embassy and UNESCO in Paris when he began hearing about the "fast growing, dynamic" school that was SIU. He now lives with his family in Edwardsville. Besides fulfilling his duties of "integrating the opportunities and resources" of the total university, Dr. Ruffner wishes to help establish a role for Southern beyond the boundaries of the United States to give the university a dimensional look.

Rendleman Oversees Business Affairs

John S. Rendleman studied government at SIU in 1946; he later received his law degree from the University of Illinois and returned to Southern as the acting legal counsel. He has also served as acting director of personnel and executive director of business affairs before his appointment in 1953 to the position of general counsel for Southern.

When Mr. Rendleman assumed the position of vice-president of business affairs, he became responsible for both business operations and physical growth of the University. He spends considerable time traveling, maintaining offices with major assistants on each campus. One of his goals is to relate the problems of each campus into a single concept.

Campus at Edwardsville Initiates Classes

The Edwardsville Campus of Southern Illinois University opened its doors in the fall of 1965. The campus, when completed, will provide facilities for 18,000 students. Massive construction continues on the 2,600 acres of rolling farm land located along the bluffs of the Mississippi River southwest of Edwardsville. Buildings will include a university center, communications building, residence halls, and life science building. Despite the fact that there are no University residence halls, enrollment totalled 6,675. The other two SIU branches, located at Alton and East St. Louis, continued operating.

President Delyte Morris makes arrangements with the area hospitals to help the nursing program of the Edwardsville campus.

Students adjusted to the lack of cafeteria by congregating in the library basement for food from vending machines and talk.

"The Walking Man," purchased for $29,000, has been the frequent subject of attention as students discuss its significance.

The John Mason Peck general classroom building is a fascinating structure built between two large lakes on the campus.

The Elijah Lovejoy Library, designed to house over 185,000 volumes, is decorated with elegant carpeting and cosy lounge chairs.

The new buildings allowed the University Center Programming Board to offer concerts, student dances, guest speakers, and films.

Increased fields of study, student activities, and work programs are planned as the Edwardsville Campus continues expansion.

Obelisk Recognizes Outstanding Faculty

The 1966 Obelisk staff continues the tradition begun 1964 of selecting members of the faculty who have shown outstanding work in their professional fields. The staff has given recognition to twelve members this year. These educators have made significant contributions to their fields and to the University. The selected few, representing only a portion of the outstanding faculty at SIU, have devoted their lives to the education of themselves and students. Their goals of fostering further knowledge in their professions can be seen by the list of activities, research and publications which can be attributed to them.

Sue Ridley, Department of Clothing and Textiles, was formerly a teacher at Carterville Community High School and has completed two years in the School of Home Economics at Southern. Mrs. Ridley holds membership in various home economics associations and she has responsibilities on various departmental committees. As co-adviser to the college chapter of the American Home Economics Association, Mrs. Ridley has represented the School of Home Economics as speaker to Career Day Conferences, teacher institutes, welfare groups, and civic organizations.

Earl E. Bradley came to Southern in 1958 as director of graduate studies in the Department of Speech. His immediate assignment was the inauguration of a Ph.D. program in that department. Dr. Bradley was associate editor and contributor to a textbook on argumentation and debate and he has contributed to The Speaker, The Forensic, The Playbill, and several magazines in the world of sports, especially The American Field. Since coming to SIU, Dr. Bradley has done extensive research in Stage Fright using the Palmer Sweat technique and logical reasoning.

Carl C. Lindegren, Department of Microbiology, is the author of more than 200 articles published in scientific journals and one book "The Yeast Cell, Its Genetics and Cytology". As recipient of the Pasteur Award from the Society of Illinois Bacteriologists and later as president of the organization, Dr. Lindegren was appointed to service with the Committee on Research, Prevention and Scientific Manpower which was a section of Governor Kerner's state advisory group on mental retardation. He was also elected a Fellow of the New York Academy of Science in 1965.

Marvin E. Johnson came to Southern in 1948 as an industrial education instructor in the School of Technology. Since that time, Dr. Johnson has served as consultant in planning education programs and school shops. In addition to writing numerous publications, Johnson has been joint owner of several patents and inventions. Joint research projects have involved him in planning, designing, developing, and constructing percussion instrument carriers on this campus. Dr. Johnson has been guest speaker of conventions, co-ordinator of committees and academic adviser for the School.

Robert Kingsbury, director of University Choirs, came to Southern in 1961. His assignment was to direct the University Choir, Chamber Choir, and Oratorio Choir. Upon student request, Mr. Kingsbury formed a male glee club. He also plans to form a women's ensemble this year. As guest lecturer for the Ford Foundation at Florida State University, he participated in a symposium of contemporary music. He was also invited to be guest conductor at one of the most distinguished choral events in the United States, the North Carolina State Festival.

Philip J. Dark, Department of Anthropology, is noted for extensive research in his field. He has conducted surveys in the Cameroons, Spanish Guinea, Dahomey, Toga, and Nigeria. Dr. Dark has also traveled to work in museums in Europe in connection with research into Benin art. The National Science Foundation has granted Dr. Dark numerous fellowships and grants-in-aid, the most recent being for studies in New Britain and New Guinea on "An Ethno-aesthetic Study of the Kilenge."

Mary Noel Barron has been on the staff of the Accounting Department since 1948. In addition to being academic adviser for the School of Business, Miss Barron teaches income tax and accounting theory. She spent a year as assistant auditor for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Her research includes a uniform system of accounts for counties of Kentucky and a procedure manual for county audits. Miss Barron is secretary and treasurer of Southern Chapter, Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Herbert L. Portz, assistant dean of the School of Agriculture, was past president of Phi Kappa Phi and also a member of Faculty Council. As adviser to student organizations—Agriculture Club, Agriculture Student Advisory Council, Alpha Zeta and Circle K—Dr. Portz was asked to inspect Peace Corps volunteers in Africa. He has been coordinator for agriculture in three Peace Corps training programs. Dr. Portz has conducted research in areas of agronomy with emphasis on forages.

P. Roy Brammell has been teaching and counseling college and university students since 1932 before joining the faculty of SIU's School of Education in 1960. Dr. Brammell was previously a member of the staff of the National Survey of Secondary Education, U.S. Office of Education and also dean of the School of Education at the University of Connecticut. As assistant dean at SIU, he serves as a member of the Graduate Council and University Council and on committees and study groups.

Robert G. Layer, a Ph.D. from Harvard, is chairman of the Department of Economics. He has served on ad hoc committees for the School of Business and for the University Council. A former treasurer of the SIU Beta Association of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Layer has written articles for the Southern Illinois University Business Bulletin. He now has a book-length manuscript, entitled "The Fundamental Bases of the Economy of Southern Illinois, 1879-1959", ready for publication.

Otis B. Young, director of Atomic and Capacitor Research, was formerly president of the Illinois State Academy of Science. He was the first president of the ISAS from Southern. He has 28 papers listed in the physics section of annual Academy meetings and various offices and committee memberships totalling 33 years experience. Dr. Young was in charge of most of the aeronautics training programs in World War II. Nuclear atomic warfare, an application of his own professional field, engulfed Dr. Young in radiological problems.

Dorothy Davies, chairman Department of Physical Education for Women, is president of the Midwest Association of Physical Education for College Women and treasurer of the national association. Miss Davies serves on the advisory committee for the College of Education. Her honors include listing in Who's Who in American Education and being a Fellow of the American College of Sport Medicine. Miss Davies is editor of physical education journals and is credited with articles in Sports Digest and other physical education bulletins.

Ronald Hansen Now Heads Research Office

The Office of Research and Projects functions as the administrative coordinating agency for all research, special developmental programs, and externally funded programs conducted by the University. The office acts as a comprehensive information center for these programs, circulating program information and publishing the Research and Projects Review, which includes information on research-related topics. Logistical support and services are offered in the form of assistance in proposal write-up, contact with supporting agencies, budget formulation, contract supervision, mobile research laboratories, and patent development. The office is also responsible for special developmental programs including the provision of research facilities, buildings, and equipment, the support of research professors and the maintenance of a research shop which assists in the design of equipment of a shop which assists in the design of equipment.

Newly appointed as coordinator of the Research and Projects Office, Dr. Ronald G. Hansen assumed his duties in the fall of 1965.

Graduate student Louis McCormick isolates a fossil from a sedimentary rock using dental tools. The research is being carried on in the Geology Department under Dr. George Fraunfelder.

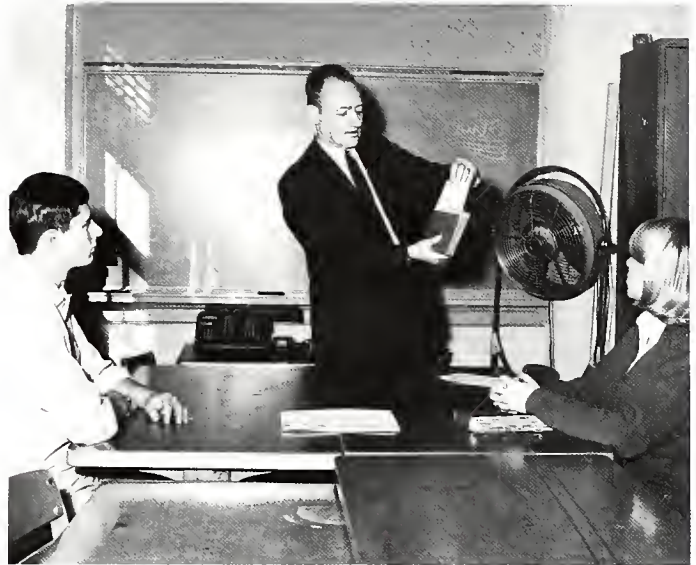

A project designed to find the cause and cure for stalk rot in corn, which costs Illinois farmers about $75,000,000 annually in corn losses, is being conducted by Aristotel Papelis, botany professor.

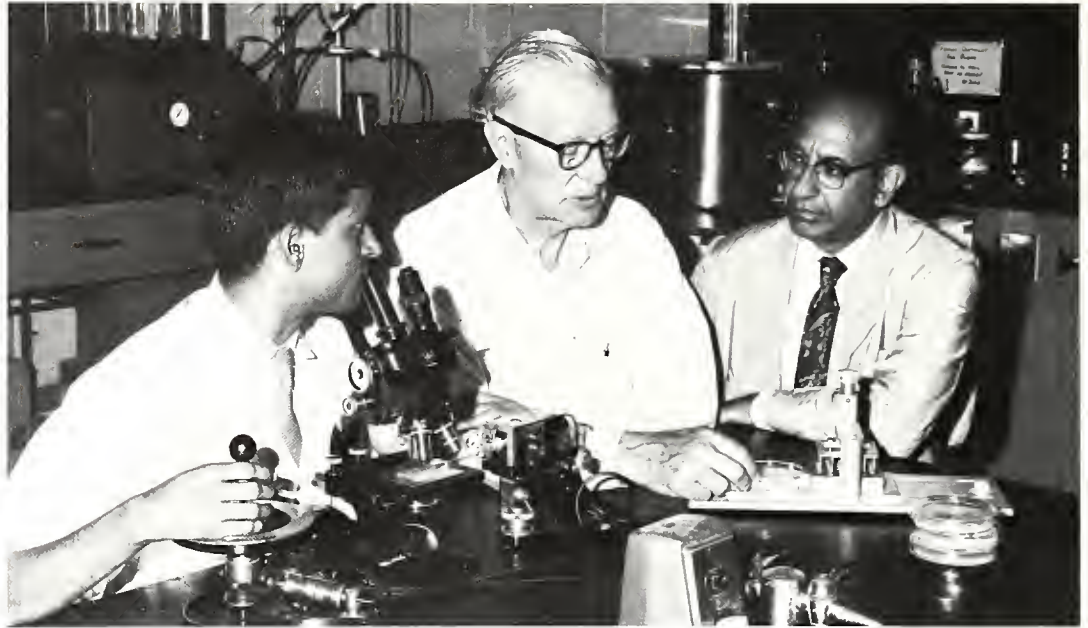

In an overall study relating metabolic changes to obesity, Dr. Frank Konishi receives a Public Health Service grant. His study involves changes in enzymes in liver and fat tissues.

Supported by a state grant of $8,761, Dr. John Casey is doing research on the utilization of intrinsic programs to study the problem solving processes of the gifted high school student.

Getting ready for a virus titration inoculation by making dilutions of viruses, Ralph St. John of the Microbiology Department assists Dr. Isaac Schechmeister in his study of tissue cultures. Dr. Schechmeister's study is supported by a federal grant.

Supported by almost $600,000 in grants, Dr. Carl Lindegren is studying the internal mechanisms and structure of yeast cells to find how they are affected by radiation, or changes in food habits.

A study of the life history and ecology of the white-tail deer at Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge is being made by the Wildlife Research Department under the direction of Dr. W. Klimstra.

Maurice Ogur, director of the Biological Research Laboratory, demonstrates to Ramon Tait, the operation of a liquid scintillation spectrometer, a machine which counts radioactive isotopes in samples of yeast cultures investigated for structure and internal processes.

George H. Gass, (right) professor of physiology, received a $36,906 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to study modifications in living conditions man may have to make for space travel. Michael Nudd (left) is a research assistant.

Receiving aid from the Illinois Department of Conservation and the SIU graduate school, the fisheries research lab is headed by Dr. William Lewis and is staffed by graduate students. It is primarily concerned with Southern Illinois fish resource potential.

The SIU microbiology research laboratory was turned into a movie studio when Illinois Bell Telephone Co. shot a picture on the cultural, educational, recreational and other advantages of Illinois.

School of Agriculture Accelerates Research

Expansion proved to be the key word for the year for the School of Agriculture as it advanced toward new dimensions in teaching, research, and services. Grants and research funds provided the resources for such services. Plant Industries received grants for soil fertility studies, while improvements and research programs were accelerated at Southwestern Farms Research Center. Animal Industries also received grants to cover swine and dairy nutrition studies and improved beef purchases.

Not only did the School of Agriculture expand on the local campus level with a 19 per cent increase in enrollment, but it broadened its fields at the international level. The school conducted a summer orientation program specifically for the foreign graduate students in agriculture. Four members of the agriculture faculty worked on their international assignments in Iran, Niger, Mexico, and Columbia while the school continued training Peace Corps volunteers in agriculture to serve in Africa.

Laboratory experiments supplement classroom lectures for the agriculture major as he examines, tests, and analyzes seeds.

Dean Wendell Keeper heads agriculture which includes forestry, plant industries, animal industries, and agriculture industries.

Housing vast assortments of plants and greenery, the SIU greenhouses provide facilities for projects by plant industries majors.

Steer roping proves an easy, but dusty, job for Animal Industries majors in the Block and Bridle Club at the annual amateur rodeo.

The dissection and analysis of a pine cone pertaining to certain tree families is the problem of a forestry major.

Examining, measuring, and charting the terrain of the lands occupied by the SIU forests provides a project for a forestry major.

New Dean Guides the School of Business

"A significant year" was Dean Robert E. Hill's description of his first year serving in the capacity of dean of the School of Business. In this position, Dean Hill led the School of Business, consisting this year of 1,000 students an increase of 340 from last year, toward guiding students into business management and industries. The course work reflects the increasing globalization of business operations and markets through teaching and research projects.

The Business Advisory Council was formed this year by a group of Southern Illinois businessmen and industrialists to work with the School of Business to coordinate their desires with the educational programming and to utilize the research services of the Bureau of Business Research. A work measurement symposium was held at the University in the fall sponsored by the Management Department. This was the first seminar of this type to be held .

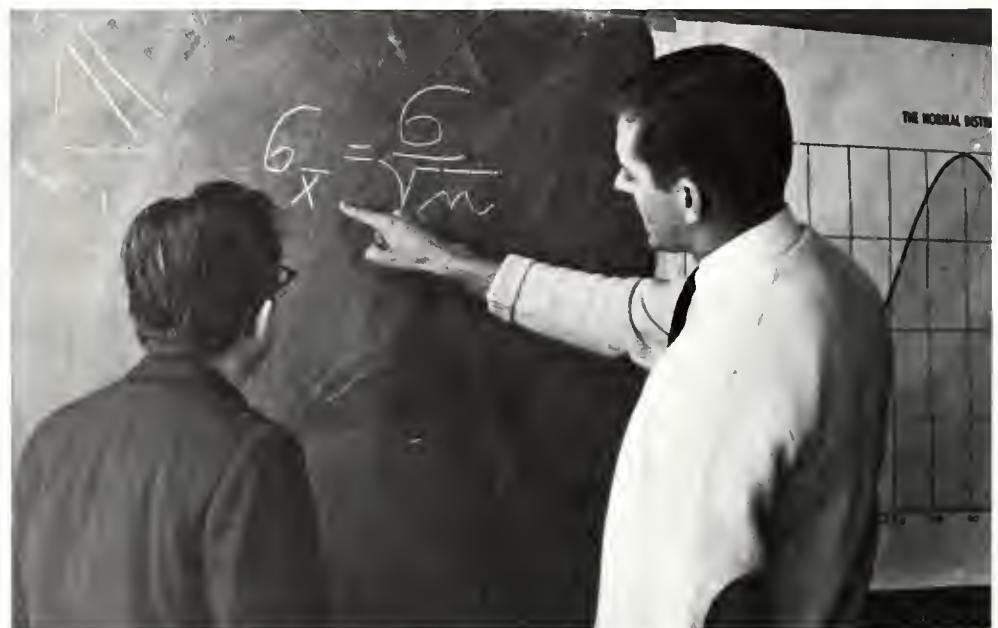

Roland Hassebrock, using the known qualities of salesmanship, gives a sales presentation to the members of a marketing class.

Robert E. Hill was former dean of business administration at Kent State before coming to Southern in 1965.

Bob Perkins questions Dr. Bernard Marks, professor of economics, about the problem of normal distribution curves.

Graduate assistants, Bob Nichols and Bob Wright, discuss with Dr. Coskun Samli progress on a cosmetics research project.

Jane McMurray, marketing student, studies and reports to interested business firms on proposed new products.

School of Communications Transfers Headquarters

C. Horton Talley, dean of the School of Communications, coordinated the school's move into new quarters.

After many months of anticipation, the faculty and 780 students of the School of Communications were finally able to transfer their headquarters into the new streamlined building designed for the school. The building includes classrooms, speech laboratories, lounges, offices, research areas, broadcasting studios, and a multi-colored theater with plush carpeting and seats and a huge stage.

A variety of projects was undertaken by the departments this year. The members of the theater department conducted a summer theater and a children's theater. Speech students participated in debate and the Interpreter's Theater. The journalism department maintained publications and other clubs related to journalism. The broadcasting stations offered cultural, educational, and athletic programs. A clinic and a camp for the handicapped was managed and operated by the speech correction department. The photography department staged a photo fair and exhibited works.

Developing the proper techniques of offset newspaper make-up is part of the activities in laboratories at the DAILY EGYPTIAN.

Always prepared with plenty of equipment, a communications major in photography adjusts his camera.

Services of the School of Communications to SIU include broadcasting Saluki basketball games on the radio.

Complex electronic and recording equipment at the WSIU radio station is under the supervision of students majoring in radio-television.

Theater majors within communications are taught the basics of set decoration during preparation for Lysistrata.

Physical Education Research Laboratory Developed

Elmer J. Clark, dean of the College of Education, began his second year by increasing the faculty to take care of enrollment.

Student teaching programs provide the opportunity for individual observation and instruction especially in lower grades.

The College of Education made the Wham Education Building the hub of its activity when it transferred its advisement center into the building winter quarter. The Arena provided the locale for the development of a Physical Education Research Laboratory sponsored by the College of Education.

With reference to the Illinois Public Law regarding federal support in substantial amounts for the improvement of education, the College held a series of special seminars for the administrators and teachers of schools in the area to assist in interpreting the law. The College found it necessary to increase its faculty roster by thirty-one and its list of graduate assistants by fifty-six to cope with the steady enrollment increase bringing 1,223 undergraduate students.

Class projects with an original touch from the student instructor offered an added incentive to the students for participation.

Instruction in the men's physical education classes extends to the unusual as the proper throws and falls are taught in judo.

Even the most attentive class has one mischief-maker to keep the student teacher busy while teaching it to read a calendar.

Design Department Sponsors International Conference

Dean Burnett H. Shryock worked closely with the departmental chairmen as a consultant for their research projects.

An international conference on communications, a performance by the Boston Symphony Chamber Players, and a visit from Harold Rosenberg, New York art critic for "The Saturday Review" were projects sponsored by the School of Fine Arts. The School of Fine Arts is composed of three departments, music, design, and art. This year its enrollment totaled 580 undergraduate students.

The Department of Design along with the International Center for the Typographic Arts co-sponsored the international conference called Vision 65 in October. The conference focused on communications in the modern world. R. Buckminster Fuller, SIU research professor of design, spoke to more than 400 guests. Visiting speakers from across the continents were Aubrey Singer of the British Broadcasting Corporation, Canadian philosopher Marshall McLuhan and Ousman Diop, Senegal's ambassador to the U.N.

The operas Gianni Schicchi and The Medium were presented by the Department of Music. Marjorie Lawrence, artist in residence, directed the programs.

Making collages in a general studies art class served to introduce students to the diverse fields of art study.

More advanced art classes gave students the experience of working on individual projects as exemplified by Sue Secrist's pottery.

A flick of the wrist with just the right hue and the aspiring artist has added a touch of genius toward a desired effect.

A little lip service and a lot of concentration are necessary to produce a correct tone and technique.

A long way from knit one pearl one is this method of whipping out yardage at the loom by this dexterous student.

Home Economics Institutes New Master's Program

The School of Home Economics gave more emphasis to graduate and research work by the initiation of a three-year master's program. The program, which began in the summer of 1965 and has thirteen students interested in the area, encourages talented young people to prepare for college teaching in home economics by laying a solid foundation for a scholarly career in teaching and research.

The 430 students enrolled in the School of Home Economics attend classes in a modernly-equipped building that contains classrooms, seminar rooms, a home management house, and child development laboratory. The completion of a textiles laboratory permits further research in the Department of Clothing and Textiles. A research lab is planned by the Food and Nutrition Department.

Students, working in the child development laboratory, organize and direct children's games and observe personality reactions.

Dean Eileen M. Quigley has managed undergraduate and graduate programs for the School of Home Economics for nine years.

The draping class is one of the courses which provides fundamental training for positions as salespeople and buyers.

Pam Landers, whose area of concentration is merchandizing, works on her apparel class project.

The experience Donna Gilbreath receives in the child development lab prepares her for the responsibilities of homemaking.

Future dieticians Bonnie Bergo and Barbara Turtin hope to make a successful analysis of the food they prepared for white rats.

Dean Piper Appears on National Television

Dean Henry Piper brought the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences into national light when he appeared on national television on "The Younger Set" in a discussion of the life of F. Scott Fitzgerald. The College played host to a consultative conference on religious studies in state universities and sponsored a special visit by Mrs. Margaret Hickey, St. Louis lawyer and public affairs editor of Ladies Home Journal. Wilbur Moulton, assistant dean and associate professor of chemistry, spent the year as a Phillips Foundation Intern in academic administration at Brown University, while Francis Monkhouse of the University of Southampton and Matthew Black, professor emeritus of Pennsylvania, were visiting faculty.

Dean Henry Dan Piper's book, entitled F. Scott Fitzgerald. A Critical Portrait, was published in 1965.

Detailed drawings are necessary for accurate representation of map areas done by the geography major in the college.

Facial expressions very aptly project the concentration used in absorbing a class lecture.

Vast subject knowledge and excellent laboratory equipment are employed to produce a successful experiment for chemists.

This student spent several weeks working on a project for his botany class, which involved the separation of leaf pigments.

Demonstrating the correct procedure to be used when separating the pigments was the task of Walter E. Schmid in botany.

Accurate measurements and careful handling of equipment was essential for best results these students discover in chemistry.

Setting up chemistry experiments can become quite a feat of engineering ingenuity despite the easy directions in the lab manual.

Foreign language laboratories allow students to augment their new speaking endeavors by providing pronunciation records.

Advanced foreign language students use laboratory facilities to listen to rapid speaking conversations.

Technology Complex to Provide for Expansion

Dean Julian H. Lauchner planned the week of dedication symposiums revolving around the role of technology.

The plastic structural model used in research project in conjunction with NASA is examined by a coed.

The School of Technology designed a curricula specifically to impart professional competencies in science, engineering, and technological education. Research projects, such as "Thermal Gradients in Crystal Studies" or "Structural Design Concepts for Future Space Missions" conducted with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, furthered the school's educational goals.

The full effects of the growing University affected the School of Technology. The instructional and research staff increased to over eighty and a 40 per cent increase in technology students was credited over last year. To take care of this increase in personnel, plans and preparations were made to move into the new 4.8 million dollar Technology Building Complex. Equipment ordered for the new buildings included an x-y plotter, and fluid research units.

Close concentration and precision handwork are necessary for electric circuit experiments.

Holding only water in reality, a fluid mechanics apparatus reflects images of the student in the fluid mechanics lab.

Laboratory courses in the machine shop introduce undergraduate students in the School of Technology to basics in machines.

Adult Education Division Sponsors Manpower

The Division of Technology and Adult Education, under the leadership of Ernest Simon, was composed of two major sections—Adult Education and the Vocational Technical Institute. In the Adult Education evening classes, the enrollment reached nearly 10,000. The program offered 501 separate classes in 170 different course subjects. The Adult Education section of the Division also sponsored Manpower, a retraining program to combat poverty for 1,000 Franklin and Williamson county residents.

The Vocational Technical Institute sponsored a team of instructors in Afghanistan to establish an institute for technical training. An unusual research project on the use of native hard woods with an A-Frame building was developed through VTI and the United States Forestry Commission. New programs for the year included an Aviation Technology Program through Carbondale Airport and further studies in the Mortuary Science Program. VTI's enrollment reached 1,468 students for a 2 per cent increase.

Courses in machine drafting are offered to VTI students which provide lab work with instructors in many types of machines.

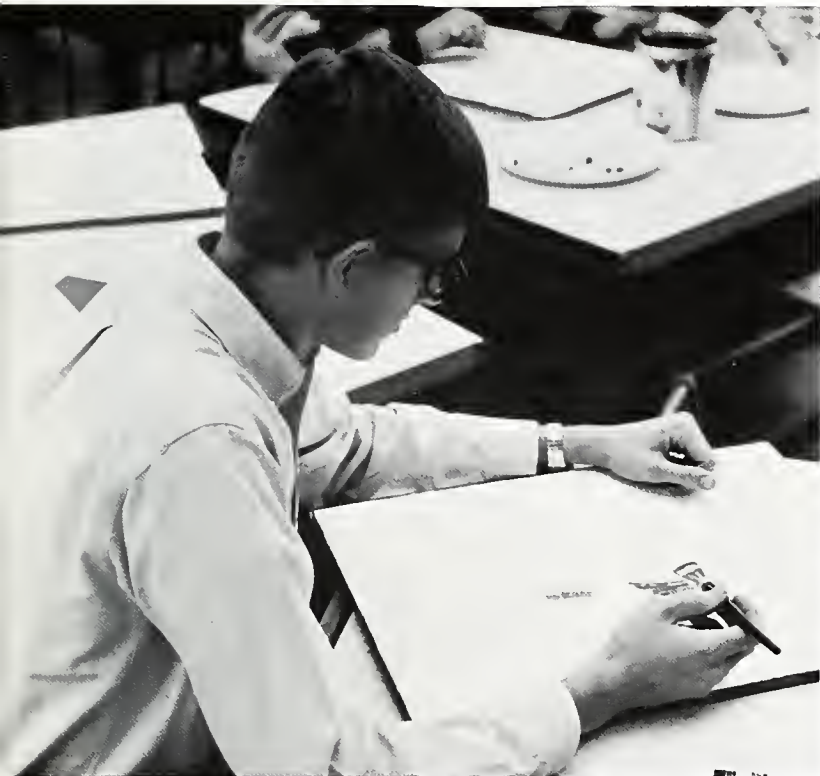

Assembling eye-catching and appealing showcases is a challenge of the talents of the merchandising majors from VTI.

Ernest Simon has served as dean of the Technical and Adult Education Division of Southern located at VTI for thirteen years.

Courses in commercial art are offered in VTI's curriculum for students interested in applying their talents in the business world.

Closely precisioned work even through the sparks of a welding torch is necessary in machine technology.

VTI students are instructed in the workings of an engine in the laboratory workshop designed for the automotive tech majors.

External Agencies Show Interest in Graduate Program

William E. Simeone, professor of English, assumed the title of dean of the Graduate School this year. The number of graduate students enrolled totaled 2,081, of which 700 were faculty.

Among the activities in the Graduate School was an anthropological trip to New Guinea supervised by Philip Dark. Research was prevalent in the microbiology, botany, zoology, and chemistry departments. Many of the researchers received grants from external agencies, such as from NASA, the National Science Foundation and the National Defense Education Act. To encourage the advanced study at the doctoral level, the federal government continued to sponsor fellowships to the University for students and faculty.

To put into practice the skills that they acquired as undergraduates, the University employed graduate assistants. Some of these not only worked in their respective departments, but were also employed as teaching assistants for some of the lower level courses.

Dean Simeone directs the master's program in 49 fields and the doctoral programs in 18 areas of specialization.

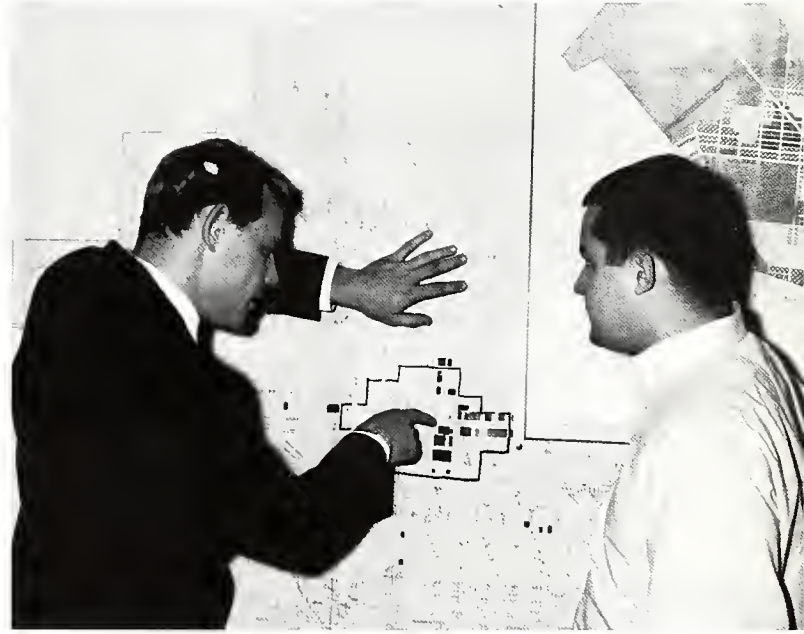

From a land-area study, Gene Garrett hopes to determine a tax comprehensive for his master's thesis sponsored by a company.

Larry Woody and Joe Galetto are employed in the School of Business office as graduate assistants to the Dean.

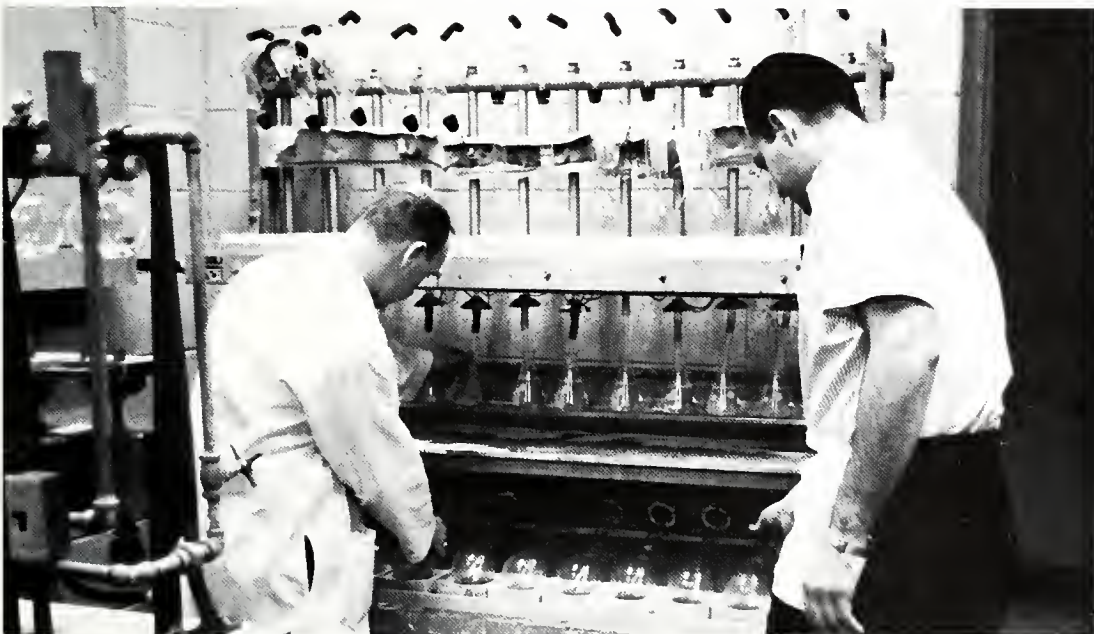

Framed in his own work, this painter shows that the surroundings need not be especially extravagant for the work to be effective.

Richard Judd and John Hasenjaeger in the Bureau of Business Research checks plans for a study for a park in Carbondale.

By using a specialized process in animal industries, Bill Morris and Dan Harbaugh check the nitrogen content of feed samples.

Diverse Background Is General Studies' Purpose

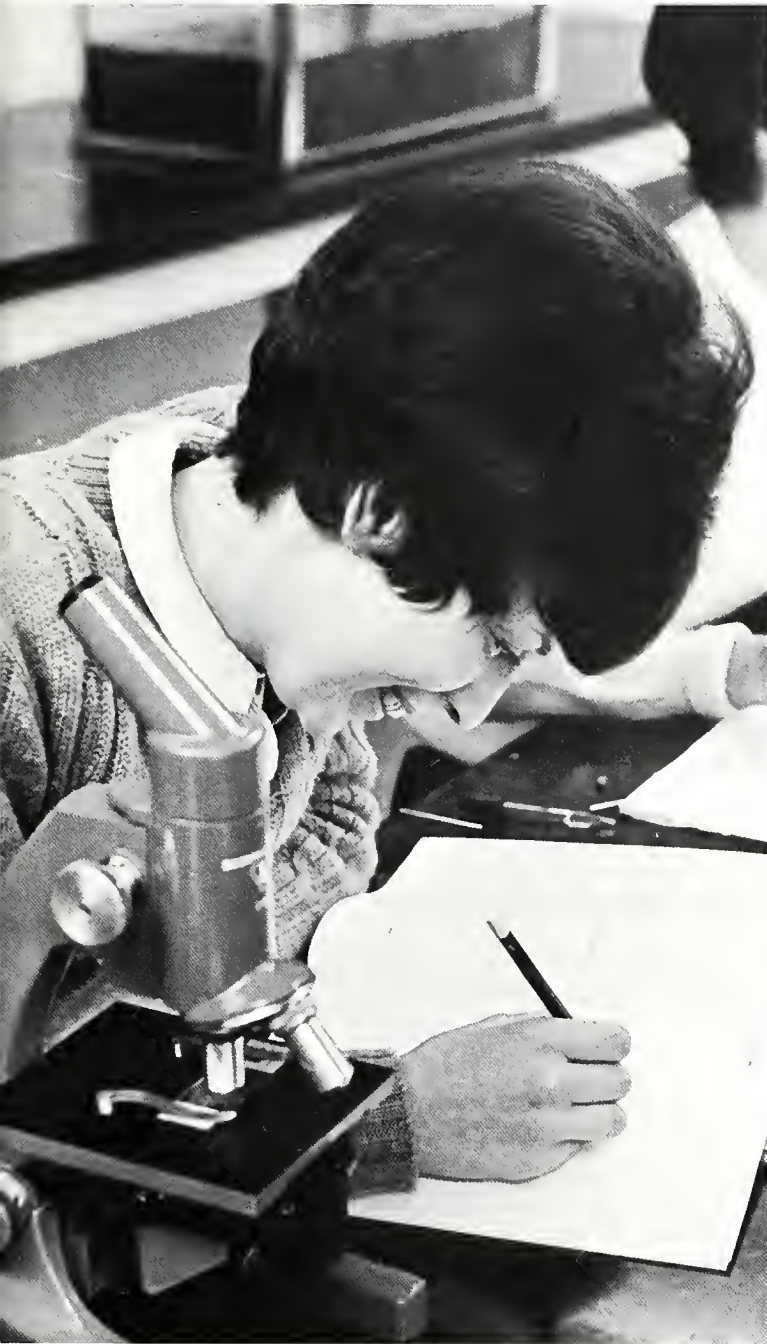

John W. Voigt, serving as the executive officer of General Studies, directs the program's faculty and courses in an advisory capacity.

In its second year of complete operation, the General Studies program continued with its unique educational system. The purpose of the program is to provide each SIU undergraduate with a completely integrated field of studies. The required ninety-six hours of the program range from the humanities to organic chemistry to fine arts.

The large lecture classes in many of the GS courses were, for a large part, held in the newly opened octagonally-shaped Lawson Lecture Hall. The headquarters for the General Studies offices and advisement center felt the expansion of the University. To cope with the problem, the entire operation moved to the University Center.

Designed specifically to accommodate the newest audio-visual equipment, classrooms in Lawson Hall contained the GS lectures.

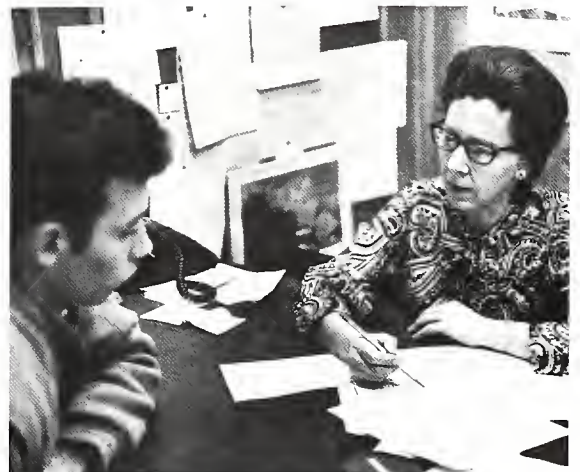

The GSA course in biology offers students not only lecture classes, but laboratory sessions to show examples of the studied fields.

In classroom design suggestive of the United Nations' General Assembly, students take notes in a history course.

Experienced advisers counsel students in the proper sequences of General Studies courses before declaring a major.

ROTC Program Is No Longer Compulsory

After fifteen years of mandatory ROTC, the University has adopted a voluntary program. This year's cadet enrollment of 500 gives no indication of changing the annual out-put. Southern's AFROTC has provided an average of 40 second lieutenants since 1951. For each academic quarter one quarter-hour credit is given. The continuing purpose of the AFROTC is to select students for the advanced course that is designed to prepare men to serve as commissioned officers of the United States Air Force.

Various commissioned officers conduct classroom instruction in which the principles and strategies of the ROTC are presented.

Lt. Col. James Van Ausdal serves as professor of Air Science for the corps, which includes a staff of twenty officers.

The Honor Guard participates in many functions which call for participation of a unit of the cadet corps.

Sophomores read from Kitto's The Greeks among other works including literature and philosophy in translation.

Plan "A" Curriculum Crosses Many Disciplines

The Plan "A" curriculum began in 1960 and now enrolls nearly 100 students. The students, meeting weekly, study many disciplines that have been thoughtfully planned to supplement the students general studies requirements. There is a general outline for a four-year study in Plan "A".

Freshmen study "Social Problems in America" and "The Nature of Science." During the sophomore year Plan "A" students look at culture as it was to the Hebrews, the Greeks, and the Romans. During the junior year students resume the study of contemporary cultures but now of significant non-Western cultures. Seniors study the problems which a culture in transition encounters in education, morals, politics and economy.

Those who stay in Plan "A" for a year or more have an opportunity to develop unusual abilities to make their positions clear on all sorts of issues and to defend themselves ably. Students receive credit for Plan "A" curriculum.

Students choose topics of special interest to them and report to their classmates on these. Term papers may be assigned.

Gentle horses and level bridle paths afford children in the summer camp program at Little Grassy Lake the opportunity for riding.

Basic movements in beginning swimming and diving are demonstrated to children in the program of summer camps.

Little Grassy Aids the Handicapped

Southern Illinois University's outdoor laboratory at Little Grassy Lake consists of 3,500 acres of forest, research areas, and recreational facilities. Little Giant Camp on the grounds offers a summer of residence programs for about 400 children and adults with handicaps ranging from mental retardation to muscular dystrophy. Little Grassy facilities also offered six weeks of recreational therapy for children with speech, hearing, and other physical defects.

Closely supervised recreation areas and patient counselors enable wheelchair-bound handicapped children to swim at Little Grassy.

Many improvements were made on the area's physical aspects. The camp's road network was blacktopped and a new parking lot near the Little Giant dining center was constructed. Little Grassy is the headquarters for the national Information Center for Recreation for the Handicapped which is supported by the United States Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. The coordinator of the Little Grassy camp facilities is William F. Price.

Extension Offers Study at Off-Campus Sites

The activities of the Extension Division were widely encompassing. The Division served as the host for the University during all meetings and conventions held on campus, as with the VISION 65 conference in October. While training students for professional work with on-the-job training at Anna State Hospital and the Menard State Prison, the Division offered the undergraduate 50 per cent of his degree. A traveling tour of theaters is a major yearly project for the Extension. While only the advance students were able to take part in this theater program, it provided them with the experience necessary for their future work with the public. Another activity is personality analysis of the prisoners.

Serving as the "host" organization for the many conventions and meetings held on campus is one function of the Extension Division.

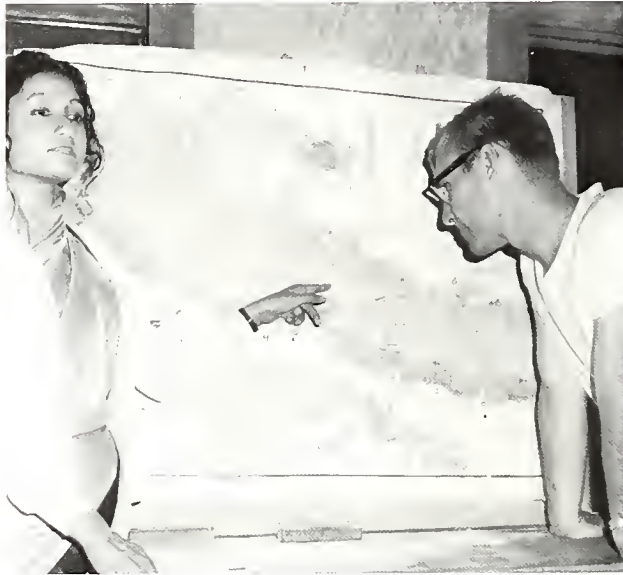

Group study and panel discussions are an integral part of the study and teaching techniques of the Extension Division.

While serving as dean of the Extension Division, Raymond H. Dey guided the varied activities—on and off campus.

International Services Continues Assistance in Viet Nam

A Peace Corps volunteer receives language instructions at the Little Grassy Lake Training Camp from Bunu Basynt, a native of Nepal.

The International Services Division, under the leadership of Director Ralph E. Margetts, served as an effective intermediary between many foreign students and the University. The Division provided many services for these students in relation to their exchange programs. Work continued in the lines of setting up programs of assistance and education in foreign countries through the University. Work also continued in South Viet Nam in the areas of technical training for the uneducated people and in Mali, Africa, where a team of teachers set up schools and workshops.

Discussing Viet Nam are Dr. Harold DeWeese of SIU's Teacher Training Program and Phan Nguyen.

SIU representative Clifford F. Kaiser instructs Vietnamese students in a forging class as part of the technical training program.

Jose Wilkins conducts an English class in Nigeria under the Ford Foundation Grant operated by International Services Division.

Over 5,000 signatures were obtained on the petition initiated by the student government in support of Vietnamese policies.

General Westmoreland accepts the SIU student petition supporting the Viet Nam action from Dean Junz and Fred Armistead.

Institutes Advise Students and Community

Although they operate independently of the University, the institutes of SIU rely greatly on the cooperation of the various schools and colleges to fulfill their educational purposes. The institutes have no apparent connection with one another other than that they train and advise their students in their respective fields, using the facilities of Southern Illinois University and area opportunities.

Students in the Labor Institute are trained to be skilled craftsmen in special apprentice-related training classes. This institute offers studies in mathematics, welding, and blueprint reading while promoting labor-management harmony through research.

Larry Finke displays the best techniques of salesmanship in the shoe department to SIU student John Rush. Such techniques are only part of the course study offered by the Small Business Institute. This institute also offers advice to businesses in the area.

Graduate students in the Latin American Institute often engage in group discussions and advisement within the institute. Formed to enlarge opportunities for Latin American students, the Latin American Institute sponsors a summer study program in Mexico.

Intricate maneuvering is essential for Don Feldstein as he uses one of the many facilities offered by the University for handicapped students. The Rehabilitation Institute studies ways for improving conditions for these students. Directed by Guy Renzaglia, the institute also provides instruction in research and rehabilitation along with various programs of summer orientation.

Second Straight 2—8 Season for SIU Football

Southern opened and closed a disappointing season on the gridiron with victories to post a 2—8 record. The Salukis staged a rally in the second half of the opener to overcome the stubborn Iowans 23—18. Louisville downed SIU 14—0 in the first contest with a Missouri Valley team. In a defensive struggle the Penguins of Youngstown prevailed 9—7, but Quarterback Jim Hart was injured, and for the remainder of the season, he alternated with Doug Mougey. Lincoln University disappointed the SIU fans in the second home game by escaping a 6—6 deadlock with a last minute field goal. The season turned from bad to worse as Drake, Wichita, and Tulsa soundly defeated an outmanned SIU eleven. Southern continued its losing ways by bowing to Northern Michigan 24—6 on Parents' Day and to undefeated Ball State 30—19 the following weekend. A victory came at last as SIU beat Southwest Missouri 19—6 in the finale. Two of SIU's opponents received bowl bids: Tulsa (Bluebonnet) and Ball State (Grantland Rice). Head Coach Don Shroyer was asked to resign during winter term.

After a bruising afternoon on the field, Vic Pantaleo shakes hands with an opposing lineman in a display of sportsmanship.

SIU fullback Monty Riffer crashes into the line for short yardage, but gained 361 for the year to lead the Salukis in rushing.

Two Southwest Missouri tacklers team up on Arnold Kee to limit the Saluki speedster's yardage which totaled 295 for the '65 season.

A Northern Michigan rusher tries in vain to stop a pass from Hart to a Saluki receiver open downfield.

The Salukis huddle to come up with the right play on a third down or the best defensive strategy for the opponent's offense.

John Ference finds that he can go nowhere as two linebackers close in on him after snagging a pass from Jim Hart.

Saluki fans found two occasions to cheer at the Homecoming fiasco in which Tulsa romped to a lopsided 55-12 victory.

Hart Totals 1,144 Yards Passing for Southern

A look at the final statistics reveals that quarterback Jim Hart's passing totaled 1,144 yards and seven touchdowns. His leading receiver was John Ference who caught 51 passes for a 580 yard net gain. Arnold Kee led the team in the punt return and kickoff return departments. In the scoring race Monty Riffer and John Ference were tied for first with 24 points apiece. Jim Hart was second with 18 points and alternate quarterback Doug Mougey third with 12. The leading rusher, Fullback Monty Riffer, gained a total of 359 yards for an average of 3.6 yards per carry.

Coach Shroyer looks forlornly at the action on the field as the inexperienced Salukis managed to win only two of ten games in 1965.

Al Equi (60) watches as a teammate tackles a Southwest Missouri Bear in the season's finale which SIU won 19-6.

It takes two opponents to haul one Saluki, John Ference (82), to the turf as the determined SIU ball carriers totalled 1262 yards.

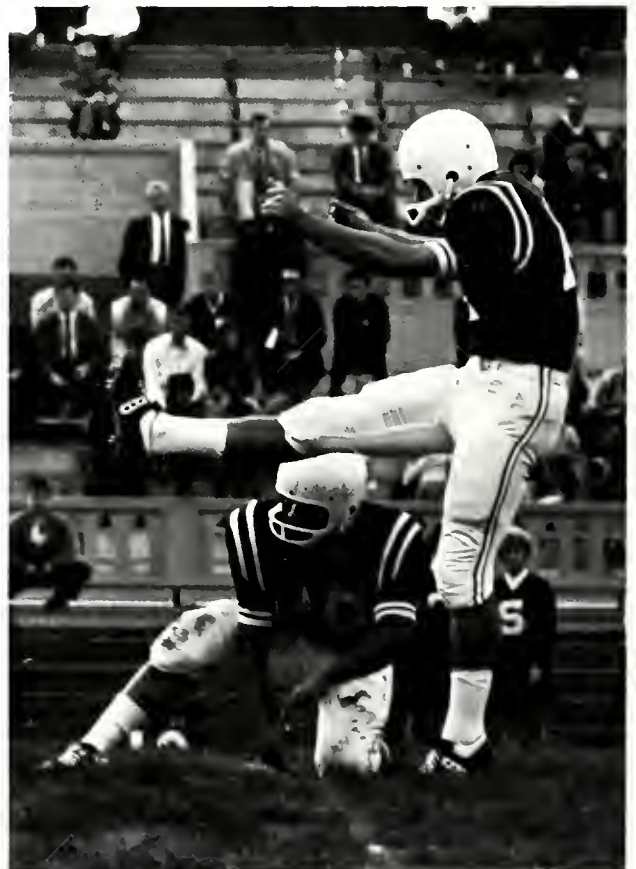

The Saluki line is face guard to face guard with the Southwest Missouri linemen as Quarterback Jim Hart waits for the center snap.

Doug Mougey slips through a hole thanks to a timely block from teammate Monty Riffer to pick up some valuable yardage.

With Arnold Kee holding, alternate quarterback Doug Mougey converts one of his six point-after-touchdowns of the season.

In addition to sweat and muscle, the football player needs a desire to win.

Freshman Football Team Posts .500 Season

The SIU freshman team opened its season with a win over Southeast Missouri. After losing to a strong Memphis State team, the Saluki frosh rebounded to defeat Tennessee Tech 20—18. The Southeast Missouri junior varsity avenged an earlier defeat by topping the Salukis 13—6 in the finale. The leading scorer for Southern was Tim Kelley who posted 18 points on three touchdowns. Kelley also completed 8 of 19 passes for 82 yards. The leading rusher was Dave Inglis who averaged 6.2 yards and totaled 259 for the season. SIU compiled 1,010 yards to 746 for its opponents.

Marching Salukis Given Standing Ovation in St. Louis

The sounds may be those of a jazz tune or a traditional march, but in either case it is a product of many individual musicians.

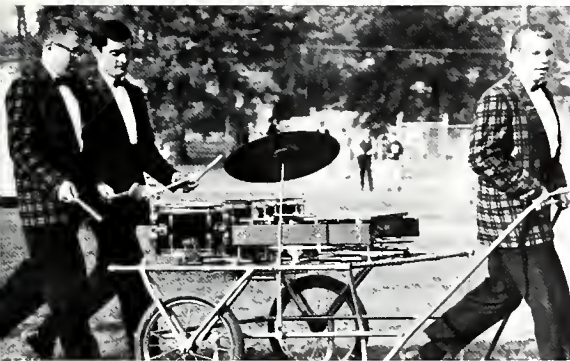

In addition to halftime performances at all SIU home games, the Marching Salukis accompanied by the majorettes entertained at professional football games in Chicago and St. Louis. They received a standing ovation at the Cardinal game for their halftime show based on the music of Henry Mancini. Besides their musical abilities the Marching Salukis contributed much to the cheering section with their comic yells and enthusiasm. The majorettes led the band onto the field and added to the halftime shows with their twirling exhibition. On Parents' Day in darkened McAndrew Stadium they impressed the fans with their display of fire twirling during the halftime entertainment show.

During each home football game the director of bands Melvin Siener leads fans in the Alma Mater.

Mascots Help Boost SIU Football Spirit

The Saluki dog is of Egyptian descent and was chosen as Southern's mascot in an election in 1952. Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity takes charge of the dogs during football games. The Salukis Ornah Farouk and Burydown Datis celebrate each touchdown by a swift trip around the gridiron. Supposedly, this brings the team luck, but not much this year. John Rush costumed as a Saluki dog boosts SIU spirit at the games with his comic antics. He accompanied the Marching Salukis and majorettes to St. Louis where he entertained Cardinal fans with his clowning.

One of the duties of a mascot is to pose for photographers and pretend to be interested in the foolishness on the football field.

John Rush eyes the cannon suspiciously wondering whether it might go off, but he needn't worry because it's plugged.

Oscar Moore set a course record in the freshman division at 14:28 against the Chicago Track Club.

Oscar Moore who clocked 19:57 led the freshman cross country runners to a victory on the new SIU four-mile course in the season's opener. The Kansas harriers handed Southern its second setback by taking four of five places. DePaul swept two from SIU by winning 23—34 over the varsity and 17—19 over the Saluki Track Club. John Trowbridge placed sixth and highest of SIU runners entered in the Kansas Invitational. Meanwhile, Oscar Moore set track records in both the DePaul and Chicago meets. The duo of Ackman and Trowbridge finished first in the two-man ten-mile relay here with Kentucky. Only individuals competed in the NCAA and Central Collegiate while a team entry placed third in the USTFF meet.

Southern won first, second, and third place in the ten-mile relay with the duo of Currey and Leydig placing third.

Southern Extends Arena Record to 28—1

Southern finished the 1965-66 season with a perfect 15—0 mark in the Arena to boost the two-year home court record to 28—1. The Salukis opened the season in the Arena with a 91—49 victory over Northeast Missouri. SIU toppled Wichita 89—68 in a tremendous second half effort to post a 6—1 record at Christmas break. From early January until the end of the season Southern maintained a firm grip on the No. 1 position of the UPI rating poll. After two defeats on a road trip to Arizona, the Salukis rebounded to defeat Tennessee State 84—71 and Oglethorpe 70—60 during a six-game winning streak. The last five games promised to be the toughest of the year. Southern opened the series with a 68—48 win over Kentucky Wesleyan at Owensboro. After losing by two at Indiana State, the Salukis topped the Oklahoma State Cowboys 69—60, then edged Evansville at the Arena in a 80—75 overtime thriller, but at Wichita could not overcome the hot shooting Shockers and dropped the finale, 87—80. The Great Lakes NCAA Regional at the Arena found the Salukis repeating as champions after defeating Indiana State 85—65 and Evansville 90—77 in the championship game. The regular season ended with a 18—6 record for Southern.

Southern Finishes Second in NCAA Tourney

Southern entered the NCAA finals at Evansville as the favorite after winning the Great Lakes Regional. The Salukis, meeting the West Coast entry, Fresno State, in first round action, built a 46—30 halftime margin, and SIU coasted to a 93—70 victory. In semi-final play the Salukis faced the Sioux of North Dakota. The obstinate Dakotans battled the Salukis on even ground until the last minutes of play when SIU spurted ahead for the 69—61 win. Kentucky Wesleyan advanced in the opposite bracket for the right to meet the Salukis for the national title. Even though the Panthers had been beaten twice earlier in the season by SIU, the game was close until the final gun. KWC overcame a five-point SIU advantage in the closing minutes, and went ahead by two with seconds remaining. Two shots from outside failed to tie the contest as KWC added a last second free throw to make the winning margin 54—51. SIU, having a poor shooting night of .365, finished second in the tourney for the second straight year.

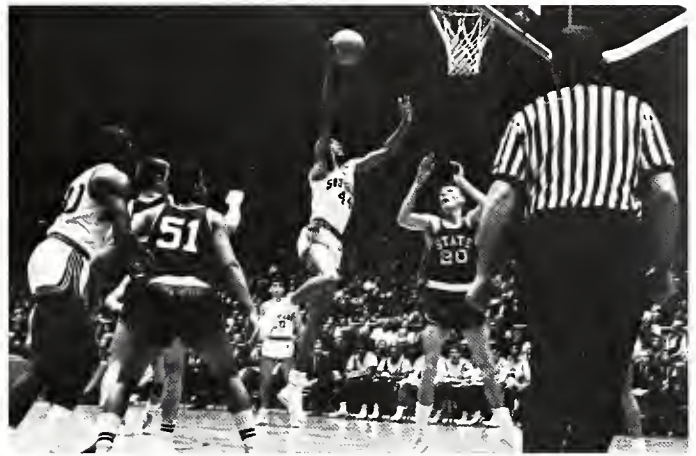

A large crowd jammed the Arena to watch the Great Lakes Regional Tournament final where the Salukis beat the Aces, 90—77.

An overhead shot at the basket reveals a battle for the rebound between Larry Humes and Boyd O'Neal.

The lowering of the scoreboard during the tournament was an unusual sight for the fans.

The feed-in play to Boyd O'Neal worked successfully against the unsuspecting Indiana State Cagers who were trounced by SIU.

McNeil Placed on Little All-American Teams

The Associated Press panel of sports writers and the UPI coaches named George McNeil to the first teams of both Little All-America teams. Teammate Dave Lee was extended honorable mention. McNeil, Lee, and Smith were on the All-Tournament team at Evansville. McNeil, Lee and O'Neal made the All-Tournament team of the Great Lakes Regional. George McNeil was the leading scorer with an 18.2 average and 528 total points, and Dave Lee was runner-up with a 12.8 average and 370 total points. The three other Salukis averaging in double figures were: Boyd O'Neal (11.9), Clarence Smith (11.3), and Randy Goin (10.0). In rebounding Boyd O'Neal set a new SIU record with 22 of SIU's 41 rebounds in the third Evansville game. As a team Southern shot .447 from the field compared to .408 for the opponents. The SIU defense held the opposition to an average of 63.3 points per game while the Salukis averaged 76.2 for the entire basketball season.

Three Evansville players were caught off guard as Boyd O'Neal (45) fires a jump shot from inside the free throw lane.

Dave Lee drives past Sam Watkins (12) of Evansville and gets high in the air for a shot at the basket.

Freshmen Team Finishes with 13—2 Record

Freshman Coach Jim Smelser groomed a field of sixteen cagers for possible berths on the varsity squad.

Two Kentucky Wesleyan defensive players watch Willie Griffin (32) drive around them for a basket or pass off to another player.

After getting off to a shaky start, the freshman team won its last ten games to post a 13—2 record. The Bradley Braves defeated the Salukis 66—61 at Peoria, and Paducah Junior College edged SIU at Paducah 75—69 for the only losses of the season. The team reached the century mark only once with a 100—79 victory over St. Louis, but in a rematch with the Billikins at St. Louis it was much closer as Southern won 68—67. The team shot .436 from the field and averaged 76.8 points compared to a .390 shooting percentage and 65.4 average for the opponents. Four Salukis averaged over ten points per game: Willie Griffin (14.7), Creston Whitaker (14.3), Eldo Garrett (13.1), and Chuck Benson (12.5). Benson led the team in shooting percentage with .543 and in rebounds with 150, averaging ten per game. In the free throw department, Lynn Howerton made 17 of 19 for a .895 percentage with Rich Brueckner second at .778, and Eldo Garrett third at .765.

In an attempt to block the shot a Paducah player fouls Leon Brown (30) as he goes up for the basket and a three point play.

Freshman guard Dick Garrett (12) dribbles the ball out of the reach of the Kentucky Wesleyan guard playing on defense.

Salukis Win National Gymnastic Championship

Southern won the national team title by edging the University of California 187.2 to 185.1. Michigan State placed third and Iowa State fourth in the team standings. SIU advanced to the national finals by winning the Mideast Regional. The season began with the Midwest Open and Iowa Invitational Meets. Upset-minded Iowa State gave the Salukis a scare in the first dual meet, but SIU was victorious 188—187.7 to protect its 39-game winning streak. For the remainder of the season the Salukis were unbeatable winning eleven dual meets, a regional title, and a national championship. In NCAA individual competition Frank Schmitz captured first place medals in the long horse and free exercise. Brent Williams placed fifth in free exercise, sixth in long horse, and sixth in trampoline. Fred Dennis tied for second on the rings, and Ron Harstad placed third on the parallel bars. Other winners were Hardt, third in trampoline, Tucker, sixth in high bar, Mayer, fourth in long horse, and Dvorak, fifth in trampoline. The team title was the second in three years.

Frank Schmitz sparked the Salukis in team competition with a team-high performance in the trampoline of 9.5.

Ron Harstad qualified for the national finals on the parallel bars and then demonstrated his skill with a 9.2 performance.

In the Mankato State meet Fred Dennis placed third in the high bar in addition to first place in the still rings.

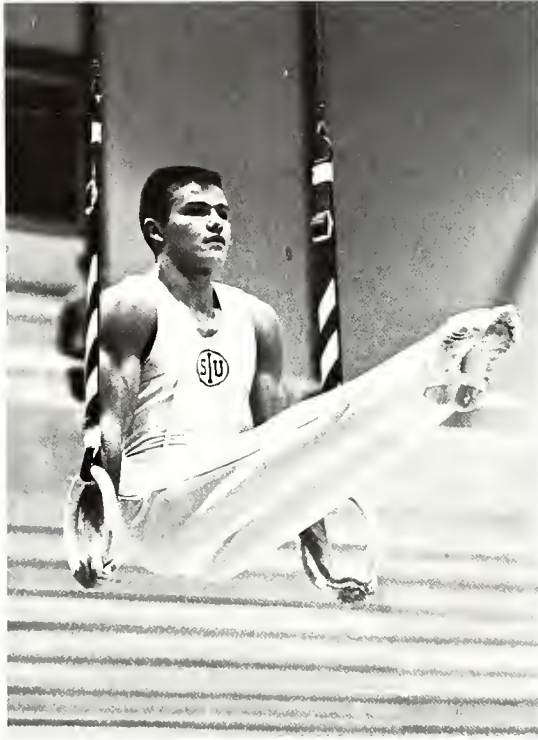

Fred Dennis's 9.55 was the best mark in the rings at the NCAA Mideast Regional which was won by Southern.

In his second year of varsity competition Rick Tucker is SIU's top ring man ranking sixth in the national averages.

Paul Mayer did not compete on the parallel bars during the NCAA Regional due to injuries, but did compete on the long horse.

Veteran gymnast Tom Cook displays the proper sitting position in his specialty, the rings.

Hutch Dvorak who appears to be floating on air competes on the trampoline with teammates Schmitz and Hardt.

In addition to competing on the long horse, Brent Williams also performs with Schmitz, Hardt, and Dvorak on the trampoline.

The success of the gymnastics team in the next few years depends on newcomers like John Hultz shown on the rings.

Besides the long horse Paul Mayer also competed in free exercise in the NCAA finals, and he placed sixth in both events.

Women Gymnasts Win Collegiate Championship

The SIU women's gymnastic team dominated the Collegiate Championship Meet at Southern and won its third consecutive title. The team, coached by Herb Vogel, completed its third undefeated season to extend its record to 30—0. This includes both dual meets and championship tourneys. Southern also won the USGF National Championship and the Canadian AAU National Championship. Gail Daley gained her fourth consecutive Canadian national title. Ten of the sixteen-member All-American squad were from Southern with Judy Wills and Donna Schaezner scoring double honors. Other SIU All-Americans were Nancy Smith, Gail Daley, Mary Ellen Toth, Janis Dunham, Irene Haworth, and Linda Scott. The season ends with the World Game trials to select members for U.S. and Canadian teams.

Linda Scott moved into the starting lineup for the first time and was rated by Coach Vogel as the team's most improved member.

The world's trampoline and tumbling champion, Judy Wills, exhibits her championship form on the trampoline.

On the balance beam Mary Ellen Toth displays the skill which won her All-American honors in 1966.

Janis Dunham, an all-around performer, was the national collegiate balance beam champion.

One of SIU's new gymnasts, Nancy Smith, finished third in the world's trampoline and second in the USGF championships.

The women's gymnast team consists of Judy Wills, Donna Schaezner, Nancy Smith, Irene Haworth, Janis Dunham, Gail Daley, Judy Dunham.

Injury Ridden Salukis Face Strong Competition

Injuries plagued the wrestling team as all but two members were injured in meets or practice. In spite of injuries, the Salukis managed a 14—3—1 record going into the NCAA finals. George McCreery, 160-pounder, was lost by a knee injury late in February. Knee ailments were also suffered by Al Lipper, Al Bulow, and Aaron Bulow. Tony Kusmanoff had the best record at 23—6 and lost only to potential national champions. Team captain Don Schneider was second best with 24—2—2 and was the only member of the team to get past first round competition in the NCAA Tournament at Ames, Ia. Larry Baron, who wrestled in the 130 pound category, had a 16—3—0 mark going into the national finals. As a warmup for the NCAA the grapplers won a quadrangular meet at State College of Iowa, but managed only two points in the NCAA.

Swimmers Lose Only to Highly Rated Indiana

In dual meets Ralph Casey's swimmers have lost only to powerful Indiana. Southern's victims include Evansville, Cincinnati, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Iowa State. In the NCAA meet the team scored 12 points. Gerald Pearson's fifth place finish in the 200-yard breaststroke was the best individual effort. Until the post season tourney Ed Mossotti held a perfect 6—0 record in the 100-yard free style in which he tied the school record of :47.9. Thom McAneney set a new pool record at Evansville in the 200-yard free style at 1:49.0. Kimo Miles has a 3—1—1 record in the butterfly with his best time being 2:01.9. The 400-yard relay team also qualified for the NCAA with a time of 3:17.0 which bettered the needed 3:17.4.

Coach Ralph Casey piloted the swimming team to a 5—1 record and in NCAA competition.

Although Kimo Miles took third in the NCAA butterfly competition last year with 1:55.6 his best effort this year was 2:01.9.

Southern lost its only dual meet to the University of Kansas (NCAA champion) 68—54. The Salukis placed second in the Central Collegiate Conference and twelfth in a field of 87 competing in the NCAA Indoor Meet.

Track Coach Lew Hartzog credits the 1965-66 track team as being the best he has coached at Southern.

George Woods dominated the shot put event in every relay he entered, and won the 1966 NCAA indoor title with 61' 3/4".

In addition to a fielding average of .956, Paul Pavesich demonstrates his hitting with a good swing at the ball.

Southern Places Second in NCAA Tournament

Baseball begins each Spring with a trip South and the Salukis won two of six on this tour. Nationally ranked Ohio State, the Big Ten Champion, downed SIU 9—0 for SIU's first loss of the season. Double wins were registered over three Missouri Valley members, Tulsa, Cincinnati, and St. Louis with the twin victory over St. Louis being cited as the season's highlight by Coach Martin. The NCAA Mid-East Regional Tournament was held on Southern's new baseball diamond. Southern breezed by Ohio Wesleyan 6—1 for the right to meet Western (IAC champion) in the finals. Western bested SIU 6—3 in a ten-inning game. Al Peludat, Kent Collins, and Gene Vincent were chosen for the tournament all-star team. The '65 team with a 20—3 record was the second best in Abe Martin's 27 year coaching career. Kent Collins led the team with a .441 batting average. The pitching staff was headed by Gene Vincent with a 2.27 ERA and a 9—1 record followed closely by John Hotz with an 8—1 record and a 2.07 ERA. Martin retired from his coaching duties to head the SIU Intramural Program and was replaced by Joe Lutz. During the summer the Midwestern Collegiate League was organized, but not considered a regular varsity team. SIU was third with a 13—18 record.

Season Record 20—3

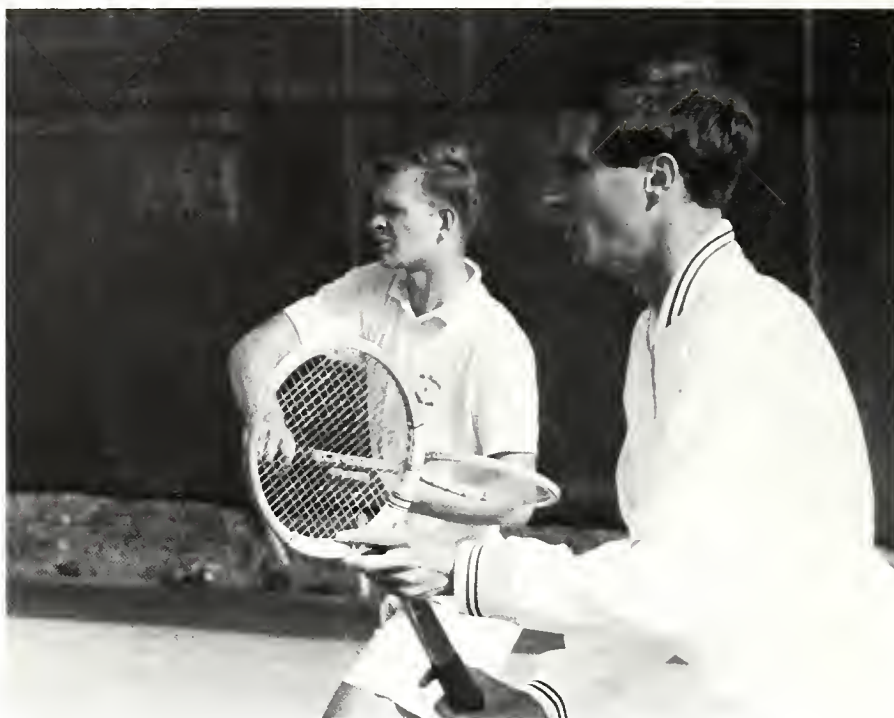

Coach Martin piloted the Salukis to a second place in the NCAA Regional Tournament in his last year at the helm of the SIU nine.

nis Walters, Edward Walters, Clifford Smith, Russell Keene, Michael Olive, Paul Pavesich, William Liskey, William Merrill, George Toler, Robert Hardcastle, assistant coach.

Larry Oblin and teammate Vic Seper posted a .500 season in doubles competition by winning five of ten matches.

Netmen End Season with Winning Streak

The tennis team began the 1965 season on the wrong foot with three consecutive losses during the spring trip to Texas and Oklahoma. After defeating Oklahoma City 4—3, the Salukis continued their winning ways for the remainder of the season and posted an 8—3 record. In the last three matches the netmen shutout Memphis State twice and Parsons once by identical 9—0 scores. Joe Brandi, a freshman player, won the singles title at the Independence Open tournament. Team captain and most valuable player, Lance Lumsden, played in the number one singles position. In doubles competition Lumsden and Thad Ferguson won eight of their eleven matches for Southern.

Corpus Christi, Wichita, and Washington players accounted for the losses of Lumsden-Ferguson.

Golfers Capture Second in NCAA Tournament

Southern's linksmen defeated a strong Tulane team 15—12 in their opening golf meet in New Orleans. Later in the season the Salukis downed Michigan State for their most impressive victory. Among the Salukis other victims were two Missouri Valley foes, Cincinnati and St. Louis. The defending NCAA champs, coached by Lynn Holder, placed second to a fine Middle Tennessee club in the 72-hole NCAA tournament. Southern amassed 1,202 strokes to 1,157 for victorious Middle Tennessee. The home course record for SIU over the last 65 games is 61—2—1. In addition to placing in the top ten in the NCAA tournament, Bill Muehleman held the number one position on the SIU team with a 75.9 average. His brother, Tom Muehleman, placed eleventh in the NCAA tournament and fourth on the squad with a 77.3 average. John Krueger (76.8), Leon McNair (76.8), and John Phelps (77.5) were the remaining members of the first five for Southern's team.

Tom Muehleman studies his score which averaged 77.3 for the year which brought him sixteen wins and six defeats last season.

A winning season and a second place finish in the NCAA tournament are a credit to varsity golf coach Lynn Holder.

Intramural Participation Increases 20%

Participation in the intramural program has increased in all sixteen sports. The director of intramurals, Glenn Martin, estimated participation would go 20% over last year and indicated that handball may be added to the program when the new courts are completed this spring. The 1965-66 winners were: The Animals (swimming), Phi Tau's (wrestling), Castaways (track), and Alkies (softball). The Alkies won the softball meet with a 7-2 victory over the Forest Hall Coolies. In fall competition the Hole-in-One golf tournament was won by Frank Schmitz and badminton by Robert Smith. Over 2,000 participated in the flag football program won by the Animals. Basketball eclipsed football in participation with 2,600 people playing in Southern's most popular intramural event.

The ball is tossed for the tipoff at one of the basketball games sponsored by the intramural program during winter quarter.

Broad jumping remains an event in the annual intramural track and field meet during spring quarter at McAndrew Stadium.

Increased Participation in WRA Activities

Participation in women's intramurals increased 50 per cent from 1,000 to 1,500 this school year. The coed intramural program is sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association with Miss Charlotte West serving as faculty adviser. Linda Hoffman is president of the organization which provides for its members thirteen sports ranging from modern dance to field hockey. The organization also sponsors intercollegiate competition in basketball, golf, fencing, badminton, hockey, tennis and gymnastics in addition to the intramural program. The coed badminton club won first place in four events in the Illinois Invitational Badminton Tournament at EIU. The Number 1 girls' basketball team won six and lost two and the overall record of all teams was 20—7. The volleyball team was host for the annual sectional meet and finished 3—2, 3—2, 2—2, for the first, second and third teams respectively. The second annual collegiate invitational golf tournament brought second place laurels to Paula Smith a junior on the team.

Two SIU fencers Pat McDermott and Mary Jane Dameron placed first in the foil team tournament at the St. Louis Fencers Club.

The WRA sports leaders were: Jane Dameron, golf; Mary Ann Griot, volleyball; Lela Bulliner, fencing; Rossa Milner, Aquettes; Sherry Kosek, gymnastics; and Cathy Maskop, tennis.

Before each dance session the WRA-sponsored Modern Dance Club limbers up by doing some free exercise routines.

Three members of the Gymnastics Club, Peg Hamilton, Deborah Maxim, and Gloria Sylvester, are poised on the balance beam.

It takes many hours of practice to perfect the skills that go into the precision swimming routines used by the Aquettes.

One of the most rugged sports engaged in by the women, field hockey, is played at Homecoming in a game with the alumni.

Initial Year for Males on Cheering Squad

Each spring a new cheering squad is chosen by means of tryouts. This was the first year in recent SIU history that there were male cheerleaders. All cheerleader candidates must tryout, even the returning veterans. The primary function of the squad is to boost Saluki spirit at home basketball and football games. The cheerleaders accompany the basketball team to nearby games at Evansville, Kentucky Wesleyan, and Indiana State. Kathy Wolak is captain of the 1965-66 squad which consists of: Janis Minor, Janice Ockerby, Mary J. Gilbreath, Bonnie Becks, Luella Dial, Beverly Karracker, Skip Ray, Don Miller, Bob Cavasher, and Ron Holder.

Saluki dog John Rush and Skip Ray watch the action as they contemplate ways of arousing the fans with a yell or a stunt.

Not all of the SIU home basketball games were close, action-packed contests as Luella Dial sees during the Nevada game.

Don Miller, one of the four new male additions to the cheering squad, follows the action during a tense moment.

The cheerleaders for the 1965 football season consisted of: Luella Dial and Beverly Karracker (front); Janice Ockerby, Janis Minor, and Bonnie Becks (back).

The captain of the cheerleaders, Kathy Wolak, depicts one of the many emotions evoked by a close basketball game—anxiety.

Bonnie Becks gives the "U" in the popular cheer spelling our S-O-U-T-H-E-R-N.

There are moments when all is joy in Salukiland for Ron Holder, such as a second half rally or the execution of the fast break.

Action Party Is Student Voice

Created for the purpose of maintaining an effective student government at SIU, the Action Party made its debut on campus in April of 1965. In order to make its presence felt, the Action Party organized a student movement, RAM, which was successful in eliciting student interest. In its platform, the Party promised to review such matters as the final exam system, the General Studies program and the athletic scholarship program. Among its accomplishments the Party lists its inducement of the administration to extend spring break to one full week.

As students in the Action Party, David Wilson and Barb Trent present views to the President's Commission.

After meeting with the President's Commission, members of the Action Party propose a toast to the success of the party.

Leaders Voice Opinions on Student Rights

Elected spring quarter by students on the Carbondale campus, Student Body President, George Paluch, and Vice-president, John Paul Davis had the immediate duty of appointing various committee heads and chairmen. Both officials possess a high grade point average and a basic knowledge and background of student government—two of the requirements for the positions of president and vice-president. They were both active in the RAM movement and are presently members of the Action Party.

A senior in financial management, Paluch hopes to go into investment in the international level after completing graduate work.

A former chairman of the University Student Council, Davis, in government, is student body vice president.

In his State of the Campus Address, Paluch cited the duties of the student, faculty, and administration.

Council Reviews Athletic Fee Hike

Divided into seven committees, the Student Council carried on such yearly duties as the recognition of petitions and the making of appointments. But it was also concerned with other pressing problems. With the boom of motorcycles, the Council had to review and pass certain regulations. One of the biggest controversies of the year, the Athletic Fee Increase, also came under Council jurisdiction. The Council looked into matters concerning a campus radio station, the new football stadium and the extension of women's hours. To establish better city-campus relations, the Council appointed a commissioner to sit in on and give opinions at City Council meetings.

To facilitate student voting, well-staffed polling centers are placed in key positions on campus by the Student Council.

Clutters of signs on every available building, tree or post herald upcoming elections which the Student Council must handle.

Judicial Board

Southern's own "Supreme Court"—the Judicial Board—serves as SIU's last board of appeals. The Judicial Board hears and considers cases from on and off-campus residents. Nine members, selected every spring by the outgoing student body president, fill the board positions. These members hear cases appealed from area and residence judicial boards along with cases in which the student government itself serves a defendant or witness.

SIU Foundation

Making it possible for interested persons to make contributions to the University, the SIU Foundation handles all gifts made to Southern. Founded in 1942, it also takes care of student loan funds, scholarship funds and endowments for special research projects. The Foundation also handles patents held by SIU professors. Its major concern this year was the planning of an eighty-wing Inter-Religious Faith Center to be built on campus next fall.

All chairmen, except those heading Homecoming and Spring Festival, are selected by the Student Activities Office on the basis of their qualifications.

Norman Luboff Choir Guest of UCPB

It is the task of UCPB members to contact organizations who might wish to put up displays in the Center.

Working for a purpose of initiating an activities program suited to the needs of SIU students, the University Center Programming Board provides social, recreational, and educational programs. The members, selected by the student body president, plan such events as New Student Week, Homecoming, and Spring Festival. They also sponsor a guest artist each year. The Norman Luboff Choir was sponsored in winter as was a leadership workshop.

It's not hard to make a sign but it's hard to put it up in windy weather UCPB members discover as they announce events.

As content editor, David Born has the difficult job of determining what articles will draw comment or hold the reader's attention.

KA Sets up New Headquarters

Acting as managing and layout editor, Rick Berger must take the chosen copy and cartoons and incorporate it into a unified page.

Serving in the absence of a campus literary magazine, KA, a two-page insert published weekly in the Daily Egyptian, was designed so that anyone might have an outlet for his opinions or creative writing. The Student Council organized KA in 1963 authorizing the student body president to serve as chairman of the board. During the year, KA championed the RAM Movement and denounced the student athletic fee increase. A popular feature of KA was LEJ's satire which included his annual awards and news.

Daily Egyptian Adopts Weekly Culture Section

Appearing daily on campus newsstands, the Daily Egyptian, a 16-page newspaper, is manned by a paid staff of 50 and a large unpaid staff. Under the supervision of Howard R. Long, the student daily is directed by Barnard K. Leiter, managing editor, and William J. Epperheimer, business manager. An editorial conference, composed of 13 members, meets once a week to talk over and delineate the policies and stands of the paper. One of the newer features of the Daily Egyptian is an eight-page Cultural Arts Supplement appearing every Saturday and including such things as book reviews, art, theater and music previews. Circulation has increased to 13,000.

Those students who worked in the make-up room had the task of fitting stories, headlines, and captions accurately on each page.

Serving as business manager of the Daily Egyptian for his first year, Bill Epperheimer still found time to do graduate work.

Under the supervision of John Matheson, copy editor, these journalism students copyread copy and wrote headlines.

With the news material gathered, Frank Messersmith began typing his final copy, making the story accurate and complete.

Sports writers, Bob Reincke and Joe Cook discuss football games, basketball games, and other SIU sports events they had covered.

Evelyn Augustin, a student worker at the Daily Egyptian checked news releases as they came off the wire machine.

Operating the Vari-typer Headliner seemed to be an easy task for John McHale who worked in the composing room this year.

Obelisk Switches to a New Printing Process

Receiving its fourth All-American in six years, the OBELISK, '65 style, again took the highest honor awarded by the Associated Collegiate Press. Upsetting tradition, the OBELISK switched to a new printing process, offset, which permits the book to have more color pictures. The six paid members of the OBELISK staff are appointed by the fiscal sponsor and are assisted by 20 others of a voluntary staff. In October, Manion Rice, fiscal sponsor, and three staff members flew to San Francisco to attend the annual ACP Convention.

The '66 OBELISK is the seventh SIU yearbook that W. Manion Rice, a journalism professor, has sponsored.

Former editor of the Belleville Junior College yearbook, Jeanne Baker, a senior and history major edited the '66 OBELISK.

Kenn Wilkening, business manager and sports editor for the OBELISK, is a biology major and a frequent contributor to KA.

Associate editor of activities, Terry Myers is a junior English major and has worked with the OBELISK staff for two years.

In her third year as layout editor for the book, Laura Chovanec, constructed the "dummy."

A sophomore art major, Deanna Schlemmer served as associate editor for organizations.

Besides being responsible for the residences pages of the book, sophomore Rose Astorino also reports for the DAILY EGYPTIAN.

June delivery found OBELISK staff members unloading lots of hard work in the form of Southern's yearbook.

The OBELISK's contribution to Spring Festival, a "Find Your Picture" corner, found many people searching for a familiar face.

Proofreading, copy writing, and picture scheduling are jobs done by workers Mary Jane Coffel, Sharon Stumpf, and Shirley Rohr.

Working toward a future position as associate editors, Mimi Sandifer and Chuck Salat serve as voluntary staff.

WSIU-TV Moves to Communications Building

Some interviews, speeches, and other specials must be pre-recorded so that they may be "aired" to the public at a later date.

Designed for the purpose of obtaining professionalism in the field of electronic journalism, WSIU-Radio and WSIU-TV serve not only as training experience for students, but also as a broadcasting outlet for Southern Illinois. Now located in the Communications Building, WSIU-TV operates five days a week with programs including weather, news, and classroom instruction. WSIU-FM covers such events as Homecoming, Military Ball, and football and basketball games. Both systems are members of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

Furnishing the campus with music, news, and special programs, WSIU-FM gives radio majors first-hand experience as disc jockeys.

Broadcasting from the WSIU studios in the new Communications Building, news broadcasts get special attention from cameramen.

Arranging the set so that the lighting is correct takes time and patience and is a basic skill required of the stage hands at WSIU.

In order to rehearse and make perfect their offering of the Bach B Minor Mass, the University Choir must practice four times weekly.

University Choir Requires Auditions

Open only to upperclassmen, the University Choir is composed of 50 members who must audition to gain membership. The Choir performs annually during New Student Week and also appears at President Morris' Christmas Party in December for the Board of Trustees. The Chamber Choir, composed of 20 students selected from the University Choir, performs in traditional madrigal costumes for events such as caroling President and Mrs. Morris during the Season of Holidays. The Oratorio Choir, which is made up of students and townspeople, stages two major performances during the year in conjunction with University Choir, the Christmas Concert and the Spring Concert.

In an impressive panoply of red and white, the Oratorio Choir and University Choir appear at the annual Christmas Concert.

Opera Workshop Presents First Double-Bill

In rehearsal for Gianni Schicchi, Schicchi's daughter sings "Oh My Beloved Daddy" begging her father to let her marry Rinuccio.

THIRD ROW: Margaret Grauer, Roland Gill, Susan Shaw, Jere Dawe, Nellie Webb, Al Hapke, Jeff Gillam, Jeff Troxler, Gloria Barringer, Gloria Smith.

After going through a formal audition conducted by Marjorie Lawrence, students are eligible to take Opera Workshop as a course for class credit. In addition to learning arias from operas, they are taught the fundamentals of operatic acting. In the fall and spring, the Workshop presents an Opera Excerpts Concert which gives members an opportunity to gain stage assurance. One major opera is given a year and for the first time this year, the Workshop presented a double bill—Gianni Schicchi and The Medium. The operas, which were performed in February, drew large numbers of adults, perhaps because Miss Lawrence herself starred in the two-act opera, The Medium.

Intense feelings were captured in rehearsals from The Medium as Toby, a mute gypsy, opens his heart to Monica.

"There Is Nothing Like a Dame" was appropriately performed by the Glee Club at Monticello College—an all-girl school in Godfrey.

Glee Club Features Male Talent

Composed of fifty male students, the University Glee Club rehearses twice a week. These frequent rehearsals yield results such as the performance for Harmony Weekend in February and the annual concert in January at which the club sang "Lotti's Mass in B Flat." Choral Director Robert Kingsbury divides performances into two parts—serious music and light music. Besides performing at home, the Glee Club travels in University busses to sing at the special request of other colleges and organizations.

In rehearsal at Altgeld, members of the Glee Club practice the first number on the January program, "Lotti's Mass."

A change from tails to ice-blue dinner jackets means a change from serious to light music in a Glee Club program.

Orchestra Accompanies Opera

Open to all Southern students, the University Orchestra is composed of approximately 45 members. Although many of the orchestra members are music majors, a large proportion are also students majoring in other selected areas. Performances by the orchestra during the 1965-66 school year included a Young Person's Concert, Christmas concerts and convocations, opera performances, programs for freshman convocations, and a special Bach B Minor Mass.

String instruments such as these often combine to form small group ensembles, a large part of every music student's training.

Accompanying the double-bill opera in February required the learning of many new and difficult pieces of music.

Herbert Levinson, former concert master of the Birmingham Symphony, conducts the University Orchestra.

Alpha Lambda Delta

All Illinois State Scholarship winners and freshman girls who attained a 4.5 grade point average during their first quarter or an overall average of 4.5 during their freshman year were invited to the initial Alpha Lambda Delta tea. The pledges were initiated at the fall ceremony at the University Center Ballroom and all members attended the president's tea with Phi Eta Sigma at President Delyte W. Morris's home. Nationally, Alpha Lambda Delta offers four graduate fellowships to those showing outstanding work.

Alpha Zeta

The Beta Chapter of Alpha Zeta works for the development of leadership in various aspects of agriculture among its members. Each month the chapter sponsored speakers for the School of Agriculture. Among them were Robert Morton, representing Ralston-Purina, and Herbert Portz, assistant dean of agriculture, who discussed his trip to Africa. The annual banquet was given in the spring and Bennie Hill received the 1965 award for the senior agriculture student with the highest grade point average.

Council for Exceptional

Children Cricket Club

Activities designed to promote interest in education for exceptional, handicapped or gifted children, provided the mainstay for the Council for Exceptional Children. Members attended the state convention in Chicago and the high school convention in Elmhurst. A film, "To Light the Shadows", highlighted the winter quarter meetings, and Council for Exceptional Children Week occupied spring's projects. Guest speakers, displays, and informal meetings were activities of the week.

Though operating under a handicap of having no actual cricket playing field, the Cricket Club remained active. They engaged in matches in St. Louis, Chicago, and other major cities within a three hundred mile radius. Playing 4 to 5 matches every quarter, the club strived toward its goal of selecting good players and playing at the national level. A definite interest in cricket and the desire to contribute to the advancement of the club was requisite for membership. Most members come from India and Pakistan.

On-Campus Dormitories House 4,000 Students

In the present age of change, even the shape of college dormitories has transformed as exemplified by the opening of Neely Hall—seventeen stories with a capacity of 800 girls. The newest on-campus dorm complex, University Park included, in addition to Neely, three men's triad dormitories which housed 330 students each.

Thompson Point, Woody Hall, and Small Group Housing still attracted near full capacity on campus. Thompson Point housed 1,320 students, Woody housed 420 girls, and Group Housing held 636 students.

Sigma Kappa House represented the other similarly structured sorority houses comprising part of Small Group Housing.

Surrounded by landscaped grounds, the Theta Xi House reflects the pattern of all Greek Row fraternities.

Neely Hall, the newest of the on-campus women's dormitories, made an imposing figure with its sectioned structure of 17 stories.

The brick, redwood, and many windowed structural characteristics of Bowyer Hall typifies the dormitories at Thompson Point.

Lentz Hall, located at Thompson Point, provided residents with a snack bar, color television, and cafeteria.

The oldest on-campus dormitory in use, Woody Hall housed its girls within its sprawling architecture of varied levels and sections.

Greeks Demonstrate Teamwork Through Programs

The facial expression on this sorority girl's face typifies the joyful feeling received by participating in a candlelight ceremony.

Five social sororities and eight social fraternities are housed on campus, in the area known as Greek Row. Although the University owns the area, the Greeks have furnished and decorated their own houses. Each year the Greeks sponsor programs which are beneficial to the entire student body, such as Theta Xi Variety Show and Greek Week. The members are active in various University projects and organizations, for example, chairmen of New Student Week, chairman of Spring Festival and president of Sphinx Club were Greeks.

Michelle Herrick and Dinah Buckley demonstrated what could happen to a pledge who failed to do her pledge duties.

Pledges of Sigma Pi social fraternity stand at attention as one of them was reprimanded by an active member.

Lee Chenoweth has served as the supervisor and adviser of Small Group Housing for his second consecutive year.

Sigma Kappa sorority girls held no restraints in cheering on their sister contestant in the events of the annual fall TEKE Ole-Impics.

Alpha Gams Emerge TEKE Ole-Impic Champions

First place trophy and queen title was awarded to Alpha Gamma Delta, social sorority, for the 1965 TEKE Ole-Impics. By winning four first places as well as several second and third places the Alpha Gams clenched the championship. The familiar competitive games included a sack race, a tug of war, a leapfrog race, and a balloon race. Sigma Sigma Sigma took second place. Marty Katzenmeyer, sophomore, was crowned queen.

The highlight of the day was the final non-competitive event where the sorority members catch their coaches, who were members of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. This year one unfortunate coach was chased up the goal post as the girls eagerly tried to catch him.

With a smile reflecting the joy of victory, Marty Katzenmeyer of Alpha Gamma Delta reigned at TEKE Ole-Impics queen.

With her eyes focused on the egg, this Sigma Sigma Sigma prepared to start the race with hope of winning first place.

To conclude the day's activities the sorority girls combine their athletic efforts in an attempt to capture their coaches.

Bounding over one of her sisters, Janice Jacobs, Sigma Kappa, headed for victory in the leapfrog event in the TEKE Ole-Impics.

Thirteen Greek Societies Sponsor Rush Parties

This rushee listened intently as Bob Carter, Phi Sigma Kappa, pointed out the advantages of fraternity life.

Greeting rushees and pinning name tags on their lapels was Bonnie West's job during rush parties at the Sigma Pi house.

The thirteen social sororities and fraternities held their annual winter rush in January. Sorority rush, sponsored by Pan-Hellenic Council, had formal rush parties throughout the week. At the first set of parties 132 girls attended. To participate in rush co-eds must have completed 12 hours and have a 3.2 grade average. Fraternity rush was held each quarter. However, this year fraternity members introduced a new program whereby they visited men's dorms prior to rush and talked with rushees.

The brothers of Delta Chi gazed through their scrapbook showing future pledges their past accomplishments.

A welcoming handshake was a familiar sight as rushees were introduced to fraternity members at each house.

Valerie Spiegel, Sigma Sigma Sigma, served refreshments to the guests at the opening set of rush parties on Sunday.

The sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta chatted with rushees at the semi-formal party, which concluded the week's activities.

Before rushees arrived the AKA's made last minute preparations to be certain the refreshments were properly placed.

To provide entertainment for the tired rushees, the sisters of Delta Zeta presented a Roaring 20's skit one evening.

Susan Blake cordially greeted rushees as they signed the guest book at the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority house.

Bustling Activity Typifies Annual Greek Week

Kappa Karnival, Greek Sing, a street dance, and the Greek track meet were several of the activities presented during Greek Week. Crowning of the 1965 Greek Goddess, Carol Black, Sigma Kappa, highlighted the street dance. Miss Black was chosen by the SIU fraternity men.

To Conclude the week's events the Greeks participated in a campus project and the Greek Sing. Cleaning the cannon and the fountain by Old Main was a part of the project. Each fraternity and sorority sang two selections at the non-competitive Greek Sing. After the sing, Sharon Hill, Alpha Kappa Alpha, was presented the scholastic award. Trudy Kulesa, Sigma Kappa, and Joe Taylor, Theta Xi, were chosen as the outstanding fraternity woman and man.

Scottie Self, Sigma Sigma Sigma, presented the most valuable sorority woman award to Trudy Kulesa, Sigma Kappa.

As the fraternity men gather along the sidelines this, Theta Xi pledge awaits his turn in the chariot race.

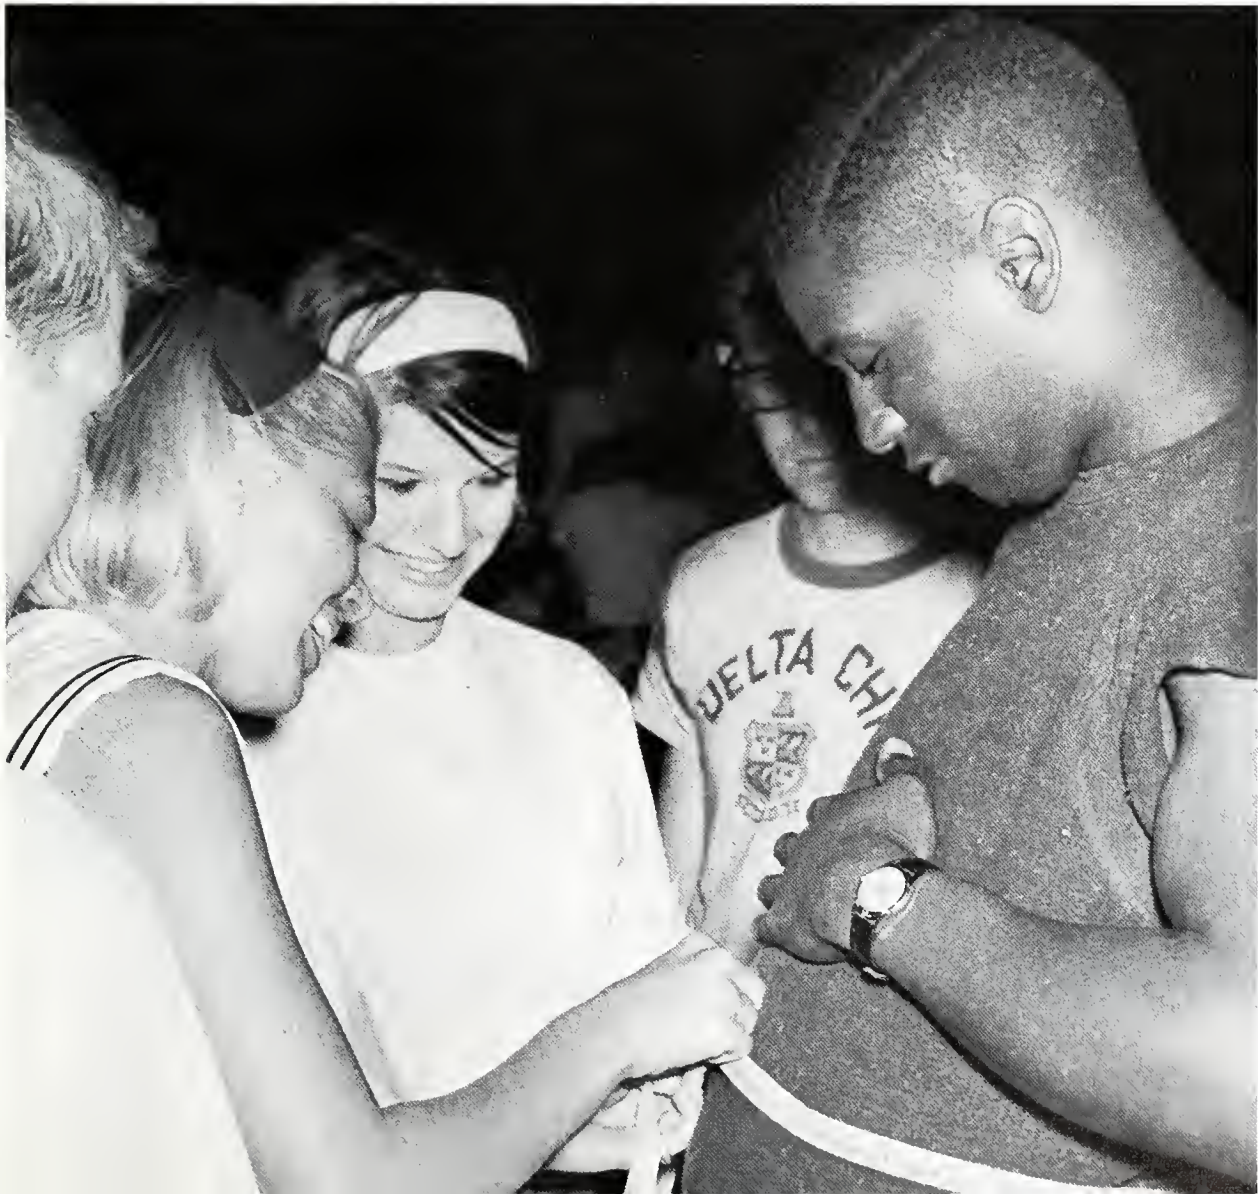

Chosen from a list of five candidates Carol Black, Sigma Kappa, reigned as the Greek Goddess for 1965.

Selected as outstanding fraternity man for 1965, Joe Taylor, Theta Xi, received his trophy from Bill Carel, Delta Chi.

At the Greek track meet this fraternity man was accurately measured in preparation for the "fat man's waddle."

Pan-Hellenic Council Alters Rush Procedures

As the governing body for SIU's five social sororities, Pan-Hellenic Council introduced several changes this past year. First of all, the Council raised the grade average to 3.2 as a requirement to rush. In addition, it abolished the system whereby formal rush was held winter term and open-bidding was during fall and spring. Under the new ruling an informal rush period will be held each quarter. Through the combined efforts of all the sororities, Pan-Hellenic entered a float in the Homecoming parade for the first year. Marsha Journey, Sigma Sigma Sigma, was president.

The members of Pan-hellenic Council made sure the rushees filled out the necessary forms before the first set of parties.

For the second year, the Council sponsored buses to take the rushees out to Greek Row to begin their visits of each sorority.

IFC Expands Bank to Aid SIU Students

Inter-fraternity Council has continued and expanded their Blood Bank, which was established to serve in emergencies for SIU students. Another project organized by the Council was an Inter-Greek Workshop held fall term, which served to assist fraternities in their planning and administrative procedures. Each spring IFC has planned and coordinated the annual Greek Week. This past year the Council established a junior IFC, which consisted of fraternity pledges. The junior council supervised the pledge activities and helped to promote cooperation between future fraternity members of the other houses.

Once rushees arrived, fraternity members explained requirements set up by the Council and described fraternity life.

Members of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity discussed rush procedures set up by Inter-fraternity Council while waiting for rushees.

“Sloppy Joe” Supper Tops Alpha Gam Activities

A “Sloppy Joe” supper provided the source of money for the Alpha Gamma Delta’s annual donation to charity. TEKE Ole-Impies were a clean sweep for the Alpha Gams. They won first place in competition and their candidate Marty Katzenmeyer won the TEKE Ole-Impies crown. During fall term the Alpha Gams gave an alumnae luncheon, open house, and the Sister-Mother Christmas Party. A Valentine’s Dinner was held in February and the International Reunion Day and the Formal in spring.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Assists Blind Students

Delta Beta Chapter

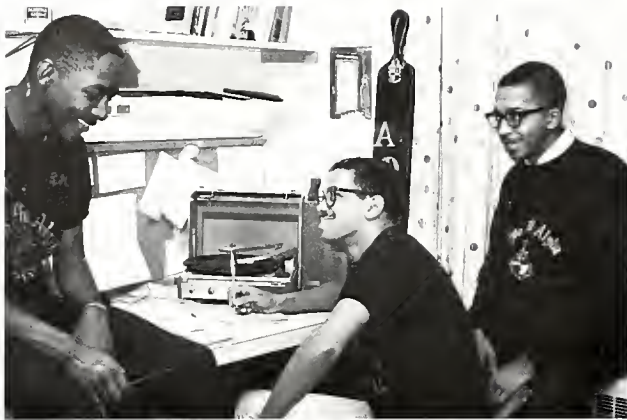

The service project of the year for the Alpha Kappa Alpha social sorority was a program of reading to the blind students on campus. The pledge class of Alpha Kappa Alpha presented a dance in January at the University Center with the Alpha Phi Alpha and Kappa Alpha Psi fraternities providing special entertainment. Spring quarter brought AKA's annual Kabachio dance when the girls elected Harvey Procter as "Mr. Kabachio." During winter quarter AKA's gave a Founder's Day Banquet.

At a Sunday afternoon rush party the Alpha Kappa Alpha sisters and housemother, Daisy Stanton, are found welcoming the rushees.

Lending a helping hand is a part of sisterhood as exemplified by these AKA's as they study together for an upcoming exam.

Listening to music and exchanging ideas on coursework exemplified the bond of brotherhood shared by the Alpha Phi Alphas.

Dancing with friends to the music played on their modern stereo was a popular pastime for the brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha.

Alphas Earn Most Outstanding Chapter Award

The most outstanding chapter award in the region was presented to Southern's Alpha Phi Alpha chapter last year. As their charity project for 1965, the Alphas had a can dance in which proceeds were given to needy families. The annual sweetheart ball and playboy party topped the social events for the Alphas. To begin each quarter the brothers held "Return To Campus" dances. Ralph E. Prusok, associate dean of student affairs, and Morris S. Eames, associate professor of philosophy, were among the guest speakers at the house this past year.

Delta Chis Win Variety Show Grand Trophy

Southern Illinois Chapter

Trading a bundle of clothes with their dates, which had to be worn to the Delta Chi bundle party, turned out to be an unusual social event. The warehouse dance was another activity the brothers held winter term. Along with the Delta Zetas, the Delta Chis were awarded the grand trophy for the 1965 Theta Xi Variety Show. Losing by only one point, the brothers took second place in the Greek track meet. Once again in a performance with the DZ's the Delta Chis won first place in Spring Festival.

Delta Zetas Merit State Honor

Southern's chapter of Delta Zeta, social sorority, was awarded the state honor of "most improved chapter in Illinois for 1965. Among other awards the DZ's along with the Delta Chis took first place in Spring Festival. The annual rose formal and a picnic the following day highlighted the DZ's social activities. Marsha Purdum, one of the sisters, was granted the Grace Mason Lundy Award, the highest service award offered by Delta Zeta nationally. The DZ's give a scholarship dinner each quarter.

Kappas Aid Area with Guide—Light Program

Kappa Alpha Psi organized the Guide-Light Program, which was designed to aid on Carbondale civic projects and to give guidance to youth in underprivileged communities. Another charitable activity was an informal social event from which the proceeds were donated to the March of Dimes. Kappas held their annual Kappa Karnival entitled "Kappas Going To A-Go-Go" during the spring term. Topping the year's events was their Sweetheart Ball. Each quarter the brothers held a scholarship banquet to honor the member with the highest grade average.

Phi Kappa Tau Collects for March of Dimes

Everyone gets a chance to help in the dorm, as is shown here when Brent Williams and Frank Farr busily changed sheets.

The line of dimes outside the University Center, which reached far down the walk by the end of the day, was an annual charity project sponsored by the Phi Kappa Taus. The proceeds were donated to the March of Dimes. A Homecoming smorgasbord and a sweetheart dance were events given by the Phi Taus. To honor members of the University administrative staff, the brothers had a dinner at the house fall quarter. Ron Hoffman, one of the brothers, was the NCAA judo champion for 1965.

Sigma Sigma Sigma Honors Needy Families

The sisters of Sigma Sigma Sigma worked with Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity to win the Grand Champion award at Spring Festival. At this year's TEKE Ole-Impics the Sigmas took home the second place trophy. Their social events included a Good Luck party held winter term and a formal in the spring. The Sigmas sponsored a Christmas party for the area underprivileged families. Each spring they sponsor the Jan Necker Award for scholarship to an outstanding member in the sorority.

Jan Kelly, Alpha Gamma Delta, was selected as the sweetheart of Tau Kappa Epsilon at the spring formal.

TEKES Win Scholarship Three Successive Terms

Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, retained its scholastic honors by earning the highest grade point among the fraternities during fall quarter. This was the third consecutive time the brothers were awarded the scholarship trophy. The TEKE's sponsored the annual TEKE Ole-Impics in October and a Christmas dinner and dance. They held the Red Carnation Ball, where the TEKE sweetheart was chosen. William Quallich, TEKE national treasurer, was the guest speaker at the Founder's Day banquet.

University Park Houses 1,540 Fall Quarter

Opening the on-campus dormitory complex, University Park, involved extensive preparation in developing the student government organization and determining the policies under which the complex would be governed. The temporary student board responsible for this consisted of a representative of each women's floor and men's unit.

Though the fall was dominated by these preparations, the dormitories of University Park—the seventeen-story Neely Hall and the men's triads Allen and Boomer—were able to arrange exchange parties, a street dance, and a fall school fashion show. These University Park residents seem to be waiting for something—perhaps it's the arrival of dinner hour at Trueblood Hall.

With the arrival of warmer weather and finals, Neely Hall students utilize a sundeck to acquire a tan.

Foreign Students Speak at Southern Acres

Southern Acres provided the scene for social events planned for the residents by the Southern Acres Executive Council. Fall quarter brought hay rides into the country from the Carterville residences and the beginning of a series of exchanges and other educational and social programs with dorms concentrating on Woody Hall girls.

The educational aspect of the University was not ignored as the Executive Council planned and prepared informative programs for the year. The residents heard students from widespread foreign countries lecture on their respective homelands, while documentary movies served as an entertaining media to gain educational insights. Scholarship awards were given to the outstanding students who achieved a 5.0 grade average for the academic year.

A prospective commercial artist diligently ploys her recently achieved knowledge to create advertisements.

A letter from home to the sound of a roommate's stereo makes hours go more quickly for these Southern Acres residents.

VTI's lawn seems to be the favorite place of congregation for students who desire a few minute's relaxation before class.

A wary student tries to catch a glimpse of his roommate's attempt to perform a professional looking job.

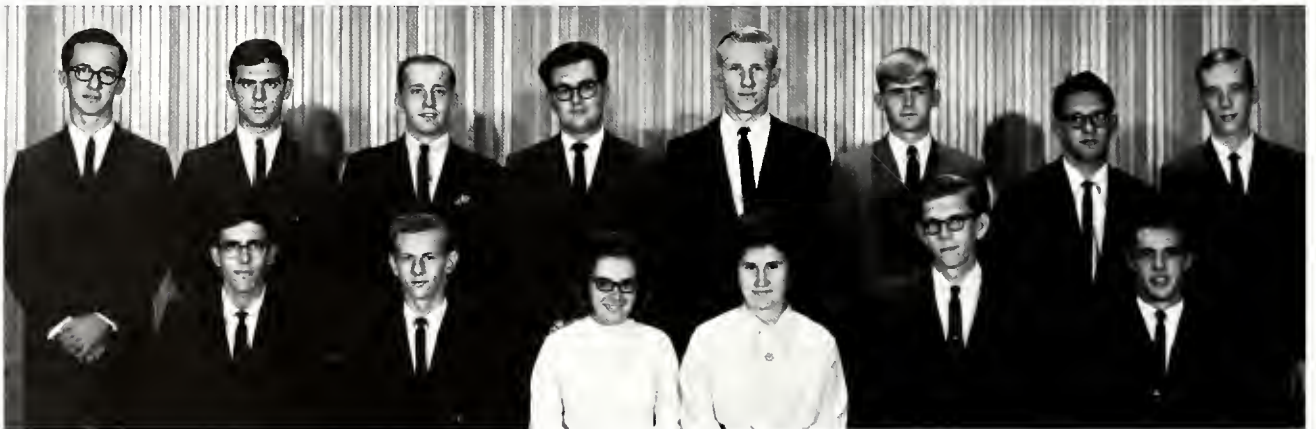

The vendor must have made a mistake thinks a VTI coed. "This is the wrong flavor. In fact, is it ice cream?"

TP Puts Emphasis on Scholarship

A little ketchup combined with a hearty appetite and these Lentz Hall patrons are prepared to alleviate hunger, T.P. Style.

Various activities were presented through the combined efforts of the eleven dormitories which make up the Thompson Point Living area. Robert W. MacVicar, vice-president for Academic Affairs, was the guest speaker at the annual Area Head's Scholarship Recognition Banquet, which was given in honor of those residents who had received 4.25 or better grade point averages during the academic year.

In addition, the programming boards sponsored several events, including Hans Conried in Concert and a stage show featuring Peter, Paul and Mary. Weekly movies and forums were also presented throughout the year. The SIU gymnasts, featuring NCAA Champion Frank Schmitz, were the guests at one of the forums. The outstanding scholarship awards were given to Kellogg and Pierce Hall.

Woody Loses Title of Largest Capacity

Though Woody Hall lost its title of being the largest dormitory on campus to the newly-constructed Neely Hall, it still housed a full load of 450 girls. It was the job of the Executive Council to plan and prepare both the social and educational programs for the residents. On the social side the Council planned a Homecoming Tea.

Spring quarter brought Woody's annual scholarship dinner which combined the social and scholastic aspect of the University into one meeting. Special recognition was given to a girl from each class with the highest grade-point average; scholarship winners were chosen from applicants screened by the Executive Council on the basis of scholastic merit and financial need.

The holiday fever strikes these Woody girls as they doff their pomp and clean pumpkins on the back lawn of the dorm.

A few strokes of the iron and this Woody Hall girl will be ready to dress for an evening away from the books.

Brent Williams, SIU gymnast, held the distinction of being elected Mr. Woody during the spring term.

A moment of privacy is of great importance before a test as this Woody Hall resident shows in grabbing a quiet spot.

Three Woody residents eagerly await the arrival of the mailman in anticipation of receiving that special letter from home.

Off-campus Dorms Attract More Students

With the expansion of the University's enrollment off-campus dormitories have cropped up throughout Carbon-dale during the few years. Approximately 5,900 students are now housed in the new facilities. The Wall Street Quad-rangle, Logan House, College Square, and Ivy Hall were among the many dormitories recently opened.

University City, one of the largest off-campus living areas, holds 950 students. In addition to the six modern dorms the residents have their own bookstore, laundromat, post office and indoor swimming pool.

University City was the largest complex of dorms in the off-campus grouping, including a dining hall, book store, and a pool.

Saluki Arms on Mill Street, one of the University's off-campus dormitories, provided girls with housing close to the campus.

College Square, a new men's dormitory on Wall Street, is another addition to the growing list of modern off-campus dormitories.

A crosswalk and a sunken swimming pool are two of the elaborate facilities offered to the girls at 600 West Freeman.

Egyptian Sands living area is composed of efficiency apartments and includes four buildings housing both men and women.

Located on University Avenue, Saluki Hall residents are close to the business district as well as the campus.

Activities for Off-Campus Residents Expand

In an effort to establish greater unity among the off-campus residents, programs such as Meet Your Professor Night and Host House Night were organized. Each week several professors assembled at off-campus houses for informal sessions with the residents. Throughout the year about 100 professors were involved in this program.

Several living areas served as host houses for the third annual Host House Night in October. All off-campus students in nearby living areas as well as guests such as Delyte W. Morris and Vernon H. Broertjes, the co-ordinator of housing, were invited. A newspaper, INFORM-ER, was made available to off-campus residents each week.

After rolling up her hair, Barbara Rhodes settles down with her books for a pleasant evening at the old grind, studying.

Chuck Salat discovers that one of the disadvantages of living off-campus is cleaning up after one of those home cooked meals.

At one of the late night gab sessions in the dorm, these girls shared ideas as to how the latest dance steps are performed.

The "hunt and peck system" proved the only solution for this student as he completed his paper in his off-campus residence.

Checking the mail appeared to be a nerve-wracking problem for this resident of Ptolemy Towers.

The trunks, boxes, suitcases, and packages necessary to move one girl in often required the strength of three.

Deep in concentration these two students took a break from the usual routine of studying to try their skill at playing chess.

Off-Campus Councils Fuse To Develop Unity

After a busy day this co-ed wearily gazes at the choice of foods available before settling down to a relaxing meal with friends.

By combining the executive council and the programming board, off-campus residents were temporarily governed by the Interim Presidents Council. The members of the newly formed Council made plans for a more permanent student Association structure for approved living areas.

The off-campus liaison committee was composed of students from the Presidents Council, members of the Carbon-dale Householders Association and a representative from the housing office. In past years the committee developed the policies and standards for off-campus houses.

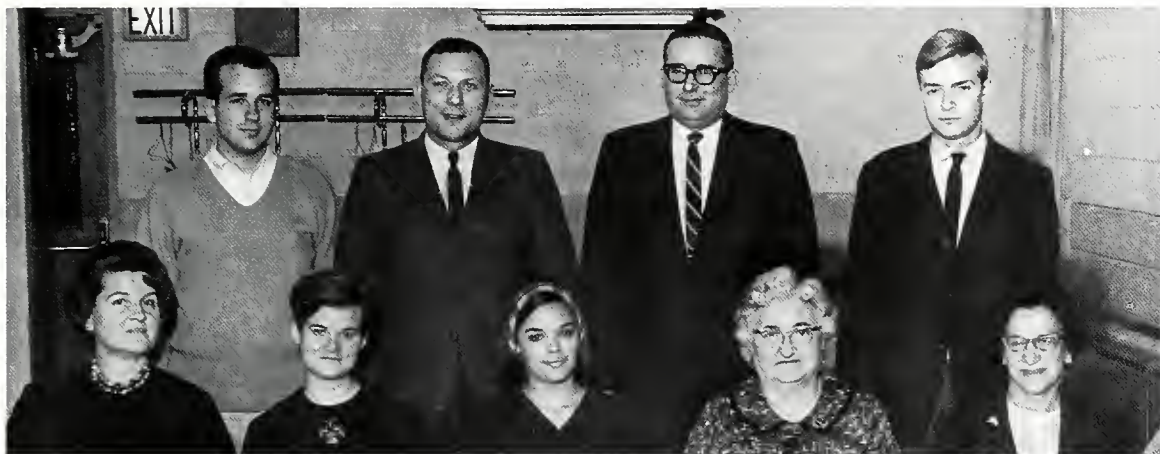

A friend with a guitar is easily found in most dorms which leads to a nightly folk singing session during study breaks.

Anita B. Kuo, off-campus housing supervisor for her sixth consecutive year, helped students settle a variety of housing problems.

Commuters Cope with Growing Parking Problem

Patty Humm, a sophomore from Murphysboro, puts the finishing touches on her hair before starting a busy day of classes.

The comforts, the lower cost, and the more desirable study atmosphere that result in living at home were enjoyed by the students who commuted several times a week to SIU. Fall quarter found 1,395 students traveling from home to school. Another 1,451 students were classed as commuters by living at least two miles off campus to retain an automobile at the University.

These commuters had to cope with many disadvantages, however. Parking spaces within the campus vicinity were always scarce. Participation in the University's activities was also limited for the commuters because of the time and distance required for the extra trips to campus.

With the growing number of commuting students, parking is at a premium. A ticket awaits this student parked in a bad spot.

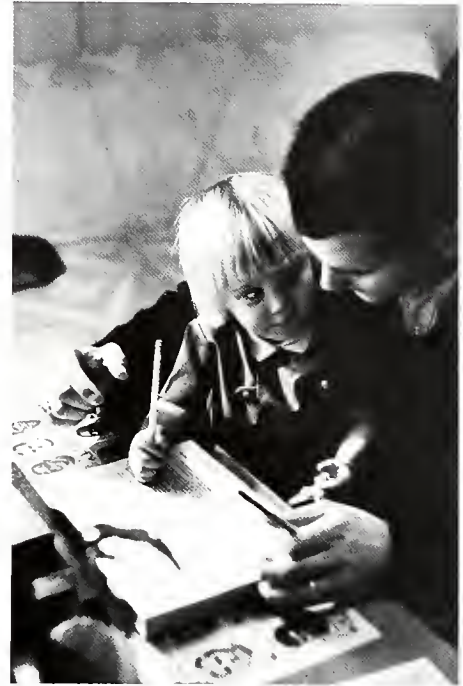

Married Students Mix Parenthood and Studying

The University eased the strains of housing problems for the married students by supplying living areas reserved specifically for them. Available for the 2,058 married students were 272 apartments at Southern Hills, 53 trailers at the University Trailer Court on Wall Street and 35 apartments at the Southern Acres.

These areas, along with many other apartments and trailers in the Carbondale vicinity, were often littered with tricycles and strollers as students combined college and parenthood. Children did not seemingly interfere with their parents' studying, as University statistics showed married students often carried high grade points.

Bob and Suzie Zeller take a break from studies and household chores to spend some time amusing their daughter, Amy.

The gleam on Amy's face shows she plans to assist her father with his studies.

Constructing a project for his design class, this resident of Ptolemy Towers combined pieces to make a well-balanced model.

Reaching over the balcony, this coed from Saluki Arms came to the aid of a friend who rushed off to class without her textbook.

Perspective: 65-66

Larry Humes (50) of Evansville fails to stop Boyd O'Neal (44) as he lays the ball in the hoop during SIU's 80-75 victory.

The Pep Band with its combination of musical and vocal support was one of the most avid groups boosting Saluki spirit.

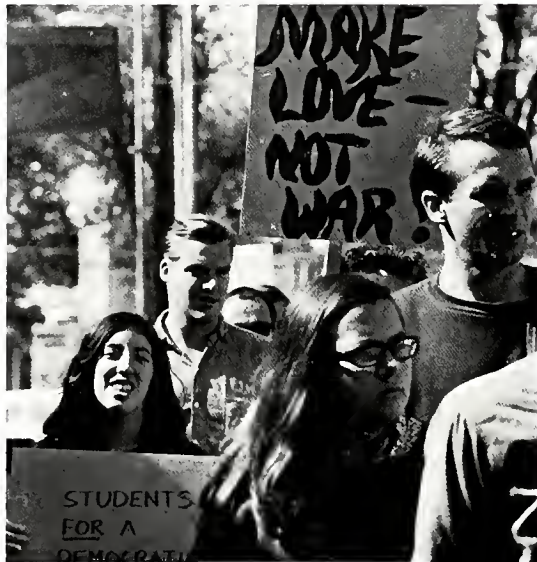

The delegates to VISION 65 were as interesting as the program.

The changing times resulted in a protest movement during spring called RAM.

Students Become Involved in Campus Protests

Student protests swept across the nation during spring quarter with the most notable at Berkeley. The Rational Action Movement (RAM) assured students that SIU was not going to be another Berkeley. RAM staged two rallies and circulated petitions for support. A letter was sent to President Morris requesting that student rights and duties be defined and that a working group be formed to evaluate the role of students in determining University policies. Fall quarter protests took the form of a teach-in, a march, and a debate on the Viet Nam war. Protest movements reflect an awareness in today's student.

The Students For a Democratic Society staged a peace march in November in protest of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

One of the RAM student Leaders, Bryan Schechmeister, addresses the students at the rally and outlines RAM.

From 1,300-1,500 attended the RAM rally which informed students of the plans, purpose and responsibilities of the movement.

John Strawn provided entertainment at the RAM rally by singing several songs he wrote about current SIU problems.

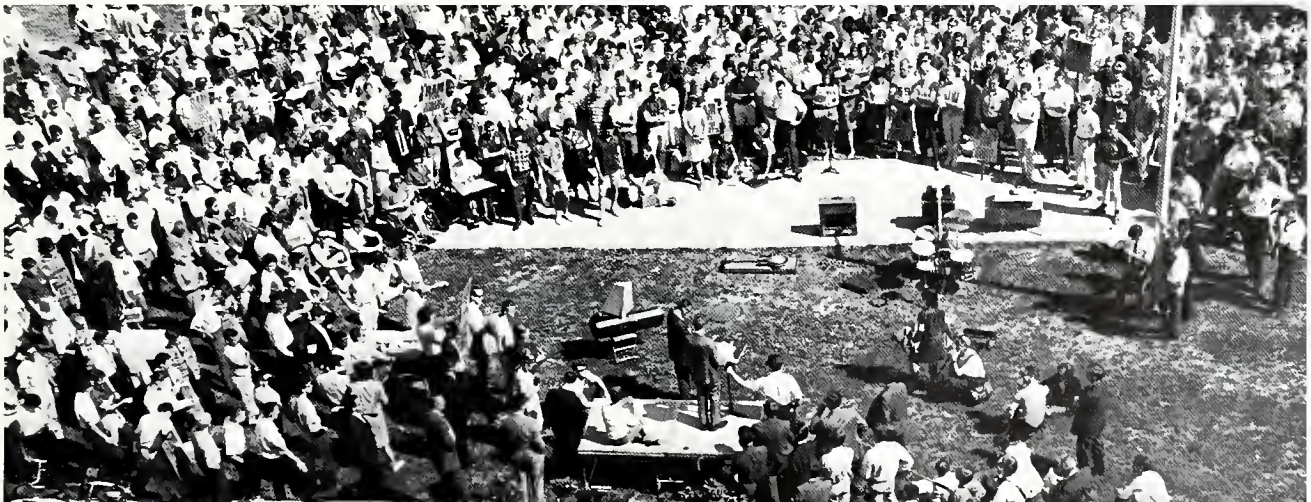

Marching for one's convictions does not erase the possibility of an egg shampoo.

Muckelroy was filled to overflowing during the teach-in at which Dr. Schilpp and other SIU professors spoke on the Viet Nam war.

An orderly assembly of SIU students met with RAM spokesmen concerning the vital and important question of student rights.

A parallel can be drawn between the war protests of today and the strike by the women of Athens in the play Lysistrata.

Each Season Reflects a New Mood

The increase in spirit on campus was due to the number one rating of the team, the rivalry with Evansville, and tournament fever.

The spirit of students changes with the season and the school year, and reflects an image of university life at Southern. During the spring there was a natural gravitation toward the beaches of Crab Orchard and Lake-on-the-Campus as spring fever arrived on campus. Activities such as musicals, plays, dances, movies, and special entertainers quickened the pace of social life at SIU during the fall.

It was not until winter quarter that things turned green on campus. Green hats, green sweatshirts, and green horns accompanied the students to the Arena to watch the Salukis play basketball. Saluki spirit reached its peak during the Evansville game and NCAA tournament.

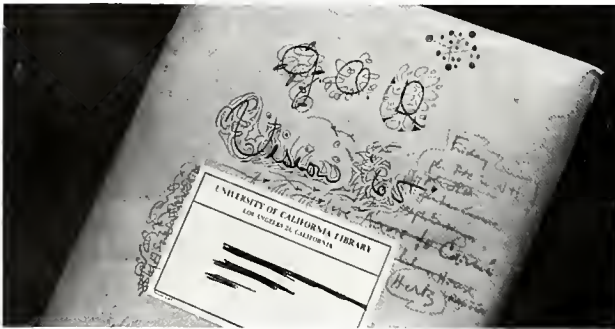

A sand-covered beach and a bit of sunshine supplied students with fun-filled activity as a leisurely pastime away from the books.

VISION 65 Challenges for Human Communication

The First International Congress on the "New Challenges for Human Communication" was sponsored by the Center for Typographic Arts in cooperation with SIU. VISION 65 was concerned with the challenges posed by technological and social developments in ways which will stimulate the individual and the community. The keynote address was given by Buckminster Fuller, SIU professor of design. Renown authorities in many fields addressed the delegates. Other SIU professors contributing to the conference were Carl Lindegren, Will Gay Bottje, and William Perk.

The speaker at the rostrum, Hon. Ousman Soce Diop, stressed the importance of communications as a basic condition for progress.

The problem of communication between speaker and delegate was resolved by the intricate doodling on a delegate's packet.

Delegates to the VISION 65 conference pause between speakers to view the displays arranged at unusual angles.

Buckminster Fuller, guided the panel in an attempt at synthesis and critical assessment of the congress.

Editor Is Grateful to Staff and Contributors

For over five decades the Obelisk has attempted to portray the stages of a growing University. The staff of the 1966 Obelisk is happy to add another chapter to the story of Southern Illinois University. The Obelisk began this year with a dream—a rash hope—that the book would offer something new for the reader and would again be recognized as one of the best nationally. The dream was not altogether accomplished, but the book was, nevertheless, completed. After the deluge of many frustrated cries for pictures, copy, and mercy, sighs of relief came from the staff as the Obelisk office became calm for the first time in thirteen months.

It was a year of firsts for the Obelisk: offset printing replaced the traditional letterpress, the book was larger than ever, and a new style of layout was utilized. The production for the 1966 Obelisk was done mainly through the conscientious efforts of W. Manion Rice, adviser; and the associate editors: Kenneth Wilkening, Terry Myers, Laura Chovanec, Deanna Schlemmer, and Rose Astorino.
